Boy scalped by bear gets new head of hair

By JACK ALEXANDER

A savage 800-pound bear bit Boy Scout Kevin Unruh 57 times and ripped the top of his head off, but miraculously he survived after his buddies rescued him by beating the beast off with logs.

Kevin's horror-filled experience happened two years ago and left him more dead than alive, but today the brave teenager is doing well and will finally get his fondest wish — a head of hair.

"He was a bloody mess when the bear got done with him," said Kevin's mom, Margie Miller. "He lost 90 percent of his scalp and the use of his left arm."

The hair-raising attack came at 2 a.m. while Kevin, four other boys and two scoutmasters slept in tents in the mountainous woods near Albuquerque, N. Mex.

The bear stormed out of the woods, flattened Kevin's tent and snatched him off the ground by his head.

"He would have been mauled to death if the other boys and the two adults hadn't pounded the bear with logs until it tossed Kevin in the air and went off into the woods," said Mrs. Miller.

But the frightening ordeal wasn't over for Kevin and his terrified friends. "They knew the bear might return for the kill any minute," said Mrs. Miller. "He circled their campground all night long. They could see him out there and they had no weapons."

Park rangers alerted by radio from a nearby campground arrived 5½ hours after the grisly attack. Kevin was airlifted to a hospital in Albuquerque while rangers tracked down and killed the marauding bear.

"We found out later the same bear attacked another little boy at a campsite and ripped off 30 percent of his scalp," said Mrs. Miller.

Although two years have passed, Kevin, 16, isn't back to normal. And he never will be.

"But he has never complained," said his devoted mom from their home in Salina, Kans. "His spirit has helped my husband and I get through all this."

The courageous kid was flown to New Orleans for surgery to repair a nerve damaged by the bear that controls his left arm. He has a 50-50 chance of eventually regaining 30 percent use of the arm.

sue paper thin a blow to the head could tear it open and cause serious infection, said Kevin's mother.

The plastic, cuplike skull cover will protect his tender scalp from damage, and comes with hair attached. It will enable him to live a more normal life.

Regular hairpieces wouldn't work because they would have to be attached with tape or glue that could tear his delicate scalp.

The new Blundell's System hair prosthesis being made for Kevin "uses suction instead of stickum," much like Tupperware, said his mother.

"Kevin still has nightmares about that horrible night," said Mrs. Miller.

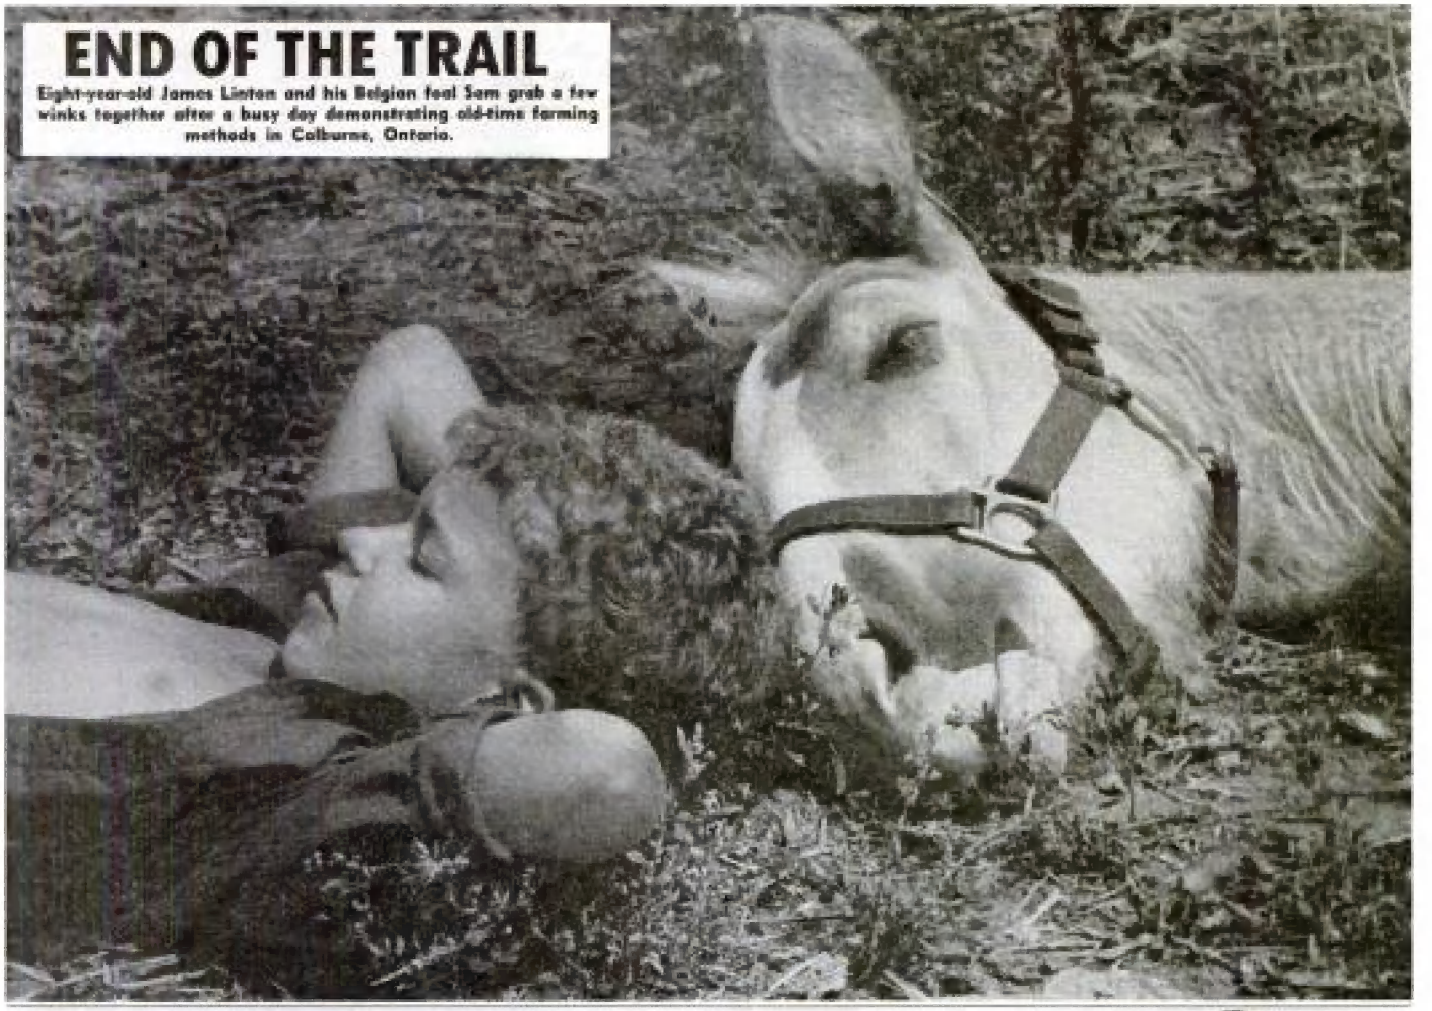
END OF THE TRAIL



Eight-year-old James Linton and his Belgian foal Sam grab a few winks together after a busy day demonstrating old-time farming methods in Colburne, Ontario.

'Spoiled-rotten' teen slit parents' throats, say cops

Authorities say a spoiled brat threw a temper tantrum that ended when he beat his parents with a barbell and slit their throats with a carving knife — because they wouldn't let him drive one of their new cars to school!

By PETE COOKE

"It was a temper tantrum that turned into violence," said prosecutor Edward Jablonski of Hauppauge, N.Y., after the arrest of 17-year-old Martin Tankleff.

"He's a boy that had everything in life and still thought he deserved more," Jablonski said.

Police arrived at the Tankleffs' swank home overlooking Long Island Sound to find the teen's mother dead on the floor of her bedroom and his father critically injured in the den.

According to the prosecutor, Martin was miffed because his parents had restricted his use of the family powerboat and an all-terrain vehicle he rode on the beach.

Jablonski said Martin also was upset because his parents informed him that he would have to drive their 1978 Lincoln to school during his senior year at Vandermeulen High instead of driving one of the family's newer cars.

But the last straw came when the Tankleffs told their son he couldn't stay home alone when they went away on a month's vacation to Florida.

Authorities said that in a murderous rage Martin stripped off his clothes to prevent blood staining them, and attacked his parents at about 5:40 a.m.

Cops say Martin bludgeoned his father with a barbell and cut his throat with a 10-inch carving knife, then attacked her with the barbell, stabbed her and slit her throat.

Martin called authorities at about 6:15 a.m., saying he found his mother dead and his father wounded when he got up to get ready for school.

Mrs. Tankleff was pronounced dead at the scene. The boy's 52-year-old father was in critical condition at University Hospital in Stony Brook.

Martin, who investigators say was adopted at birth by Seymour and Arlene Tankleff, was jailed on charges of murder and attempted murder.

POLICE say Martin Tankleff, 17, "threw a temper tantrum that turned into violence."

Girl who failed 7th grade locks herself in attic for 13 yrs.

By RAGAN DUNN

A tragically sensitive schoolgirl hid out in an attic for 13 years because she failed her final exams in the seventh grade!

When police in Carre, Italy, found 26-year-old Renata Silvestri cowering in her dank prison she looked like a character out of a horror movie.

Her once-gorgeous brown hair was halfway down her back and hopelessly matted. She was filthy dirty and the nails on her fingers and toes were over seven inches long.

Even more astonishing, Miss Silvestri was still brooding about the poor grades she got on her seventh grade finals in 1975 when she was 13.

"She was a shameful sight," Police Lt. Victor Dolcetti told reporters in Carre. "Oddly enough, I'm told that she was a normal, bright and happy child until she got the results of her examinations.

"It's really tragic that she should have suffered so much just because bad grades meant that she was set back a year in school.

"I guess she was just too ashamed to face the world."

How the girl managed to quit school at such an early age without arousing the suspicions of authorities isn't clear. Lt. Dolcetti said the girl's parents knew that she was hiding in shame in the attic. But they were unable to persuade her to come out.

"From what I gather, Miss Silvestri was a headstrong girl and they just washed their hands of her," said Lt. Dolcetti.

"They did leave food and water outside the attic door twice a day. But she would wait until they were gone to open the attic door to get it."

The attic was roomy, he said. And a light bulb on an extension cord kept it well lit. Miss Silvestri reportedly occupied herself by reading old textbooks and copies of the exams that drove her into hiding in the first place.

"We were able to rescue her after receiving an anonymous tip," said Lt. Dolcetti. "She is now under the care of a psychiatrist who thinks that her chances of recovering are good.

"But I can't help but wonder what's going to become of this young woman when she realizes that 13 of the best years of her life are down the drain."

MELVIN Bishop, making a quick recovery in his hospital bed, and his devoted wife Marjorie know he wouldn't still be alive if he hadn't been fortunate enough to have his heart attack while two CPR experts were standing nearby.

Lucky man has heart attack — during CPR class

By JACK ALEXANDER

Incredibly lucky retiree Melvin Bishop couldn't have picked a better time or place to have a heart attack — in the middle of a life-saving CPR class.

"It was a real stroke of luck," said his wife, Marjorie. "He wouldn't be alive today if it had happened in our living room."

Two expert instructors in cardiopulmonary resuscitation were near Bishop, 74, when he keeled over while practicing CPR on a dummy.

In an adjoining room of the Hartford, Conn., building where Bishop collapsed were paramedic Anthony Scierka and two nurses exhibiting the very latest in paramedic equipment.

"When my husband slumped to the floor, I thought he was kidding," said Mrs. Bishop.

"I said, 'C'mon, Melvin, cut it out,' and then I realized he wasn't joking."

Instructor Len Heroux rushed over to Bishop and rolled him over.

Finding no pulse, he began the same compression technique the stricken man had been practicing.

Bishop's face was turning purple when another instructor, Carl Ireland, took over the compression chores while Heroux blew air into Bishop's lungs.

Within seconds they were joined by Scierka, who hooked Bishop up to a cardiac monitor and determined he had an irregular heartbeat. Scierka gave the ailing man an electric shock and his heart began pumping again.

"Within 10 minutes after he collapsed unconscious, Mr. Bishop was conscious — asking questions and thanking everyone in sight," Scierka told The NEWS.

"If CPR had not been started within 4 to 6 minutes after he keeled over, chances are that he would have died."

Tooth pulled from bag of peanuts

Teenager Mark Campbell got more than he bargained for in a bag of peanuts — a tooth from the mouth of the Chinaman who picked them!

A spokesman for the snack food firm that sold the nuts apologized for the surprise jawbreaker, which apparently fell into a sack when the nuts were harvested in China and wasn't noticed until Campbell bought them in South Woodford, England.

"We take the problem of quality very seriously and apologize for what happened," said the peanut company spokesman.

"But the molar was the same size and shape as a peanut, so the chances of our equipment or staff seeing it were absolutely minimal."

DOCTORS are helpless to stop the horror disease that is causing Chandra Patel's skin to melt off her bones.

The amazing MELTING WOMAN

By IRWIN FISHER

Chandra Patel is melting like hot wax on a candle and doctors are powerless to do anything about it!

"It's just a matter of time before her face runs right off her skull," dermatologist Singh Thakur told reporters in Maharashtra, India.

"The incredible case has baffled the experts who have seen the woman.

"The woman began to melt almost two years ago and she looks like death warmed over. She's only 32 years old but looks 100!" said the physician.

"But she still has a sunny disposition — and claims to feel no pain whatsoever."

In fact, Mrs. Patel holds a full-time job in a Maharashtra sandal factory and has dozens of close friends who treat her as if she were perfectly normal.

She's also philosophical about her strange affliction and media nickname: The Incredible Melting Lady.

"People are people and I can not do anything about that," she told reporters. "But I don't harbor any ill will toward anyone.

"If it was somebody else who was melting and not me, I suppose I'd be curious, too. It's strange. But I know the Lord works in mysterious ways."

Dr. Thakur has tested the woman extensively but remains puzzled by her condition. Her flesh has literally grown mushy as the affliction has progressed.

"She's already lost sight in one eye and her nose is well

Her skin is dripping off her bones like hot candle wax on its way to dripping off her face. There was a similar case in Turkey in 1968 but nobody was ever able to figure out what caused it," said Dr. Thakur.

"I have a suspicion that we're dealing with some kind of virus. But it could take years to isolate it, much less develop a treatment or a cure."

Mrs. Patel is fully aware of the fact that her condition will end in death. But she tries to keep her sunny side up in spite of the fact that her days are almost surely numbered.

"I truly believe that everything happens for the best," said the woman. "Of course I could moan and cry but that's not my way.

"I want people to remember me as an inspiration."

After gun-wielding shopkeeper nabs him . . .

Burglar begs for jail, say cops

By SUSAN JIMISON

Bungling burglar Ronnie Owens wound up begging to be carted off to jail, cops say, after angry shopkeeper Jack Barrett caught him breaking into his store — and held him at gunpoint for two hours.

A sheriff's patrol car finally happened by Barrett's store in Kings Mountain, N.C., and arrested the terrified 28-year-old.

'He was relieved when the deputy got him'

His knees were still knocking when he climbed into the squad car, Barrett said.

"I caught him coming out a broken window," Barrett, 50, told The NEWS. "He was wanting out, but I couldn't let him out. And he couldn't go back in because I wouldn't let him. I thought maybe he'd get a gun. I shot the window out beside him and he was no trouble after that. He was just laying up there in the broken glass. He cursed me a lot, but as long as I could see his hands and his head I knew I had him."

Barrett was staking out his small-town salvage store after hours when he spotted Owens breaking in, he says, and hauled out his Smith & Wesson .38. Owens poked his head through the shattered window and started climbing in, Barrett said.

When the burglar was halfway out and halfway in, Barrett says he told him to hold it right there. And the suspect did — for nearly two hours!

"He and his buddies had cut the power off and pulled out the telephone wires," Barrett said. "I couldn't call the cops. All I wanted to do was get him.

"Vandals had broken into my store and taken clothes, stereos, stuff like that. They stole $10,000 worth of stuff not long ago. I'm a believer in taking care of my property."

SUSPECTED burglar Ronnie Owens was reportedly happy when police finally arrived.

Judge okays marijuana smoking for housewife

A pot-smoking housewife risked jail rather than go blind by growing marijuana in her yard — and a judge told her to keep on doing it.

Elvy Musikka, 49, was arrested by police who found three marijuana plants growing behind her Hollywood, Fla., home.

She explained at her trial the pot was medication for glaucoma — a disease that has blinded her in one eye and impaired her vision in the other. "The thought of going blind is more frightening than going to jail," she said.

Angry boyfriend's bizarre revenge

A man landed in jail for trying to settle a spat with his girlfriend by mailing her a package of disposable douches laced with poison!

By PETE COOKE

Federal authorities in San Diego said 44-year-old Steven James injected silver nitrate into the douches and put them in the mail addressed to his girlfriend after they had a fight.

"I don't think this was a spontaneous act," said Gregory Vega, the federal prosecutor.

"This was cold and calculated."

Vega said James, an out-of-work printer, obtained the silver nitrate from a photo supply company.

According to the prosecutor, the toxic substance is colorless and odorless and could have caused burns to the 32-year-old victim had the package not been intercepted by authorities.

A friend of James contacted police, saying he was out for revenge after his girlfriend scratched his eye during a fight.

Officers kept James under surveillance and intercepted the package he mailed to his girlfriend.

Defense lawyer Douglas Brown contended that James was taking medication that might have caused mood swings and irrational behavior at the time of the bizarre incident.

But jurors found James guilty of mailing poisonous material.

He was sentenced to a year behind bars.

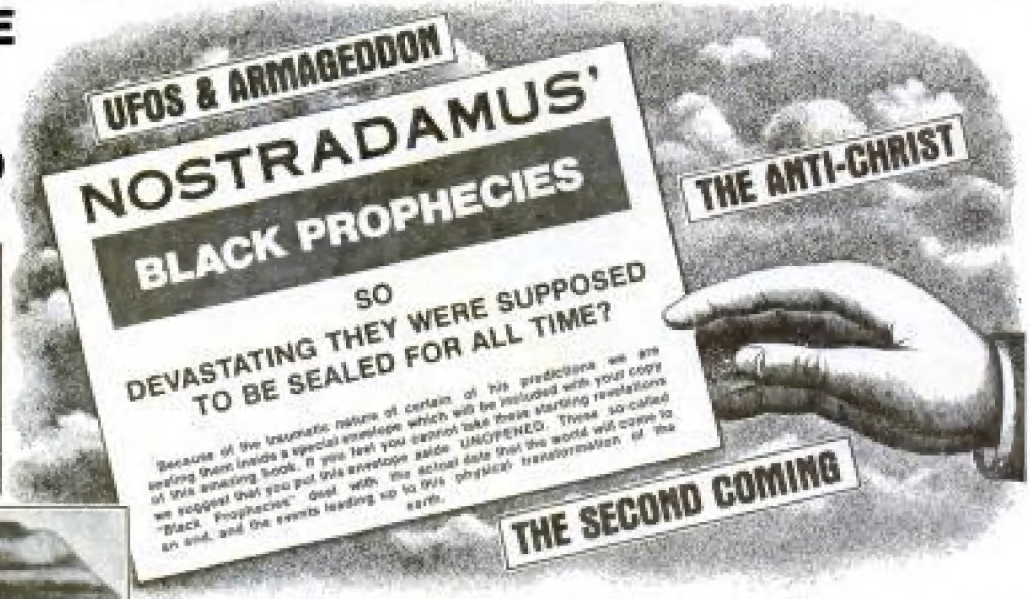
MAJOR EVENTS OF THE FUTURE REVEALED!

AN EXCLUSIVE HISTORICAL FIRST! HIS UNPUBLISHED PROPHECIES

DARE YOU READ THEM?



WAS HE A WIZARD? A SERVANT OF GOD? A SUPER PSYCHIC? A DEVIL WORSHIPPER? OR A BEING FROM ANOTHER PLANET

HIS PREDICTIONS WERE 100% ACCURATE

Nostradamus is credited with being the greatest prophet of modern, non-Biblical, times. His uncanny, indepth, forecasts are considered to be highly accurate. Nostradamus, in the 16th century, predicted both World Wars, aerial battles, submarine attacks, Hitler's aggressions, and escape, as well as the assassination of both Kennedys'.

The seer warned the world of the coming of the atomic bomb. He wrote of space flights, and about the rise and fall of Russia. In one of his most amazing predictions he revealed how Iran would be taken over by a religious fanatic writing the following in rhymed quatrains: "Revolution, famine, war will not stop Persia (now Iran). Religious fanaticism will betray the monarch (the Shah). Of which the end will begin in Gaul (France)." Everybody knows that the Ayatollah Khomeini started his revolution while exiled in France.

For the future, Nostradamus predicts that there will be war in the Middle East in the next five years, during which the big powers will intervene. He even talks of the coming of the anti-Christ and how the U.S. and Russia will combine forces, if only for a brief period. He also speaks of a "religious war" and the Vatican's having to move the tomb of St. Peter to a safe place.

But, perhaps most astonishing of all, is the fact that Nostradamus saw his own death in time to help with the funeral arrangements!

THE MOST MYSTERIOUS MAN WHO EVER LIVED

Legend has it that celestial activity was extremely powerful for several nights before the birth of Nostradamus. Reports of bright, round objects in the sky over St. Remy de Provence are recorded in the archives.

Nostradamus' birth itself was rather remarkable because Blanche Nostredame (the family's real name), presented her husband with a perfect baby, in the 16th Century, perfect babies were almost unheard of. The mortality rate was very high.

He had an incredible intellect. He was very young when he mastered several languages and advanced math. He became a licensed physician at 23. He walked among plague victims for months without catching the dread disease. With a strange mixture of herbs and ingredients unknown to the world, he was able to cure many of the afflicted, thus becoming known throughout Europe as a miracle healer.

In his day, Nostradamus made friends with kings and queens who were impressed by his ability to see into the future. Royalty came far and wide to be in his presence, so anxious were they to know what the stars had in store for them. Many were disappointed as Nostradamus knew well in advance about beheadings, revolutions, and the unfaithfulness that abounded among society's most prominent figures.

THE SECOND COMING & THE ANTICHRIST

Though Nostradamus considered himself an expert astrologer, he studied the stars in a totally unique way. He used a special device when scrying. The device was basically a magic wand which he used in conjunction with a tripod of flame and bowl of water. Nostradamus also considered himself a very religious person, and while he was born a Jew, he later converted to the Catholic faith, utilizing mystical elements from both practices in his work. Many of his predictions dealt with the Second Coming and the appearance of the Antichrist.

There are some who maintain that Nostradamus was a direct messenger of God, and that his predictions were divinely inspired. To give credence to this claim, the French seer was once introduced to a young Franciscan friar, a poor village lad, and upon meeting the youth dropped to his knees. Asked why he had done so, Nostradamus declared: "Because, I must bow and kneel before his Holiness." Years later, this youth became the Pope, under the title of Sixtus the Fifth.

Others believe that Nostradamus was a time traveler from the future, or perhaps a being from another planet. All these theories are explored in detail.

NOSTRADAMUS' UNPUBLISHED QUATRAINS

A curious manuscript has been making the rounds of Europe where books on Nostradamus have been frequent best sellers in recent months. Up till now none of this material has been released in the U.S.

Shortly before his death, Nostradamus apparently penned a series of prophecies so startling that he never had them included in any of his published works. Supposedly because he was afraid of the effect they might have. These predictions were circulated only to royalty and were thought destroyed for many years until they were uncovered, hidden in the basement of the house where Nostradamus died.

The title page of this newly discovered manuscript reads: "Century XII, Number 60." The seer's last supposedly quatrain, published, was "Century XII, Number 62." The assumption is that Nostradamus wrote more than twelve centuries, but had not revealed these predictions to his publishers. Whether this is true or not is yet to be determined. There are a total of 21 or more pages to his original prophecies that have only now been translated and interpreted.

These are just a few of the provocative subjects dealt with in this new material:

- The reappearance of Jesus to the world.
- Mysterious wonders in the sky turn out to be a friendly invasion of alien beings from other worlds in space.
- Rare knowledge which will lead to the elimination of disease and sickness.
- New inventions far superior to anything currently in use on this planet.
- A terrible war in space.

Blubbery bride's cure for her roving man

By JOE BERGER

Hapless hubby Tino Zucconi hated the sight of his blubbery wife Bianca, but he never left her side — because for 30 years the cantankerous couple was shackled together like convicts on a chain gang!

"They were bound together by 15 feet of chain, and during all that time they never got any farther apart than that," shocked cop Paulo Dacquat told reporters in little Ampoli, Italy.

"Relatives say they never got along, so it's a wonder they didn't kill each other."

Tino's tale of woe began in 1958 when beefy Bianca accused the little chicken farmer of besmirching her virtue.

"He apparently found the woman quite unattractive, but he agreed to marry her — because her seven brothers threatened to kill him if he didn't," Detective Dacquat said.

"Then, six weeks later, he was so sick of her that he left town. Only he didn't run fast enough."

Bianca's loving brothers caught up with the hightailing hubby a day later and dragged him back home, kicking and screaming.

"They got him back to his little farm outside of town and they shackled him and Bianca together at the ankles," the policeman said. "They warned him he'd be in serious trouble if he ever tried to get free."

So tormented Tino and his meaty mate lived in seclusion for the next three decades, surviving mostly on handouts from Bianca's family — and never venturing more than 15 feet apart.

"They fought like cats and dogs, and I don't think life could have been very pleasant for either of them," the dumbfounded detective told reporters.

The bizarre story came to light recently when the harried hubby suffered a heart attack and flabbergasted medics had to rush wide-bodied Bianca to the hospital alongside him. Firemen cut the curious couple apart, but Tino died two days later.

YOU CAN MAKE UP TO

One Million Dollars in 9 Months Guaranteed!

Dear Friend,

I made one million dollars in 9 months. You may do better!

My name is John Wright. Not too long ago I was flat broke. I was $31,000 in debt. The bank repossessed my car because I couldn't keep up with the payments. And one day the landlord gave me an eviction notice because I hadn't paid the rent for three months. So we had to move out. My family and I stayed at my cousin's place for the rest of that month before I could manage to get another apartment. That was very embarrassing.

Things have changed now. I own four homes in Southern California. The one I'm living in now in Beverly Hills is worth more than one million dollars. I own several cars, among them a brand new Mercedes and a brand new Cadillac. Right now, I have a million dollar line of credit with the banks and have certificates of deposit at $100,000 each in my bank in Beverly Hills.

Best of all, I have time to have fun. To be me. To do what I want. I work about 4 hours a day, the rest of the day, I do things that please me. Some days I go swimming and sailing — shopping. Other days, I play racquetball or tennis. Sometimes, frankly, I just lie out under the sun with a good book. I love to take long vacations. I just got back from a two week vacation from — Maui, Hawaii.

I'm not really trying to impress you with my wealth. All I'm trying to do here is to prove to you that if it wasn't because of that money secret I was lucky enough to find that day, I still would have been poor or may be even bankrupt. It was only through this amazing money secret that I could pull myself out of debt and become wealthy. Who knows what would have happened to my family and me.

Knowing about this secret changed my life completely. It brought me wealth, happiness, and most important of all — peace of mind. This secret will change your life, too! It will give you everything you need and will solve all your money problems. Of course you don't have to take my word for it. You can try it for yourself. To see that you (try this secret), I'm willing to give you $20.00 in cash. (I'm giving my address at the bottom of this page.) I figure, if I spend $20.00, I get your attention. And you will prove it to yourself this amazing money secret will work for you, too!

Why, you may ask, am I willing to share this secret with you? To make money? Hardly. First, I already have all the money and possessions I'll ever need. Second, my secret does not involve any sort of competition whatsoever. Third, nothing is more satisfying to me than sharing my secret only with those who realize a golden opportunity and get on it quickly.

This secret is incredibly simple. Anyone can use it. You can get started with practically no money at all and the risk is almost zero. You don't need special training or even a high school education. It doesn't matter how young or old you are and it will work for you at home or even while you are on vacation.

Let me tell you more about this fascinating money making secret:

With this secret the money can roll in fast. In some cases you may be able to cash in literally overnight. If you can follow simple instructions you can get started in a single afternoon and it is possible to have spendable money in your hands the very next morning. In fact, this just might be the fastest legal way to make money that has ever been invented!

This is a very safe way to get extra cash. It is practically risk free. It is not a dangerous gamble. Everything you do has already been tested and you can get started for less money than most people spend for a night on the town.

One of the nicest things about this whole idea is that you can do it at home in your spare time. You don't need equipment or an office. It doesn't matter where you live either. You can use this secret to make money if you live in a big city or on a farm or anywhere in between. A husband and wife team from New York used my secret, worked at home in their spare time, and made $45,000 in one year.

This secret is simple. It would be hard to make a mistake if you tried. You don't need a college degree or even a high school education. All you need is a little common sense and the ability to follow simple, easy, step-by-step instructions. I personally know a man from New England who used this secret and made $2 million in just 3 years.

You can use this secret to make money no matter how old or how young you may be. There is no physical labor involved and everything is so easy it can be done whether you're a teenager or 90 years old. I know one woman who is over 65 and is making all the money she needs with this secret.

When you use this secret to make money you never have to try to convince anybody of anything. This has nothing to do with door-to-door selling, telephone solicitation, real estate or anything else that involves personal contact.

Everything about this idea is perfectly legal and honest. You will be proud of what you are doing and you will be providing a very valuable service.

It will only take you two hours to learn how to use this secret. After that everything is almost automatic. After you get started you can probably do everything that is necessary in three hours per week.

Mom-to-be is nutty over baked beans!

By HENRY WEBER

Mother-to-be Lorna Buglass is so crazy about baked beans that she eats 908 a day — one at a time!

"I get through two large cans a day and there's an average of 454 in each one of them," said the 29-year-old woman from Westburn, England.

"I have this obsession to count them, so I eat them one at a time."

Mrs. Buglass, who is now seven months pregnant, started her incredible beandest three months ago. Since then she has downed a mind-boggling 108 cans with a total crunch, she says, of 76,572 beans.

"It's not all that unusual," she continued. "I've heard of pregnant women who crave all kinds of strange things, like sardines and jelly, french fries with chocolate sauce, even pickled onions topped with ice cream."

In spite of her amazing appetite for baked beans, Mrs. Buglass still manages to put away three square meals each and every day. Her doctor says the woman is "in first-class shape."

She eats 908 of them a day — one at a time!

Tattletale book about Philippine sexpot Imelda Marcos reveals her secret mission:

She tried to woo that wacky Gadhafi — and failed!

A shocking new book claims that ex-Philippine kingpin Ferdinand Marcos sent his beauty queen wife Imelda to Libya to woo that country's wacky leader Moammar Gadhafi.

Incredibly, stylish Imelda, who once boasted some 3,000 snappy pumps in her closet, said she failed in her mission — because she believed Moammar was either "gay or a mama's boy."

SISSY? Dictator Moammar Gadhafi likes to give the impression he's tough.

However, Moammar did have a crush on Imelda and often called her to chit-chat on the phone.

This astonishing tale is in a new book about the exiled Philippine ex-First Lady called Imelda: Steel Butterfly of the Philippines by author Katherine Ellison.

Kate writes that Philippine bigwig Ferdinand was in a tizzy because Libya was supplying weapons to Moslem separatists fighting against his Philippine army.

His plan to get the arms shipments stopped was to send his sexpot wife Imelda on a mission of peace.

According to the book, Moammar flipped for Imelda during the two visits

LEGGY beauty Imelda Marcos looked more like a movie star when she modeled this outfit during a state visit to New York several years ago.

But she reportedly never slept with him. Imelda blamed this failure on her belief that the Libyan strongman was either a fairy or a wimpy mommy's boy.

But she still loved the attention Moammar showered on her.

"Imelda thrived on the attention, and did her best to use it to make her

A lot of sexpot actresses claim they'd give their right arm for a meaty role where they didn't have to wear makeup, but could act their guts out.

"I turned down a script the other day about a young woman who has a heart attack and fights back," she sighed. "I'm sure it's a worthwhile project, but I'd like to enjoy my work, and I don't think lying around with a lot of tubes in me and being hysterical is what I want to do right now."

Loni is currently overjoyed over her recent marriage to macho hunk Burt Reynolds and the adoption of their baby.

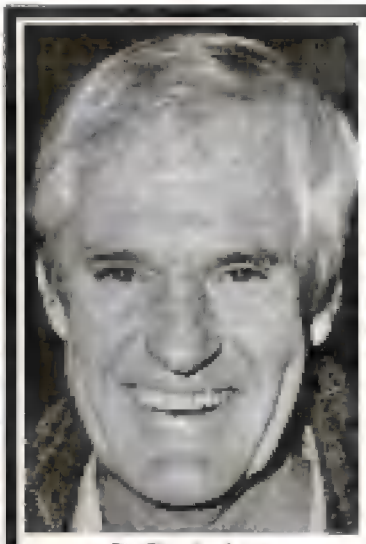
Acid head pays to have his noggin frozen for future



Dr. Timothy Leary

LSD guru and trendy yuppie philosopher Dr. Timothy Leary plans to have his head frozen after he dies so that he can have it put on a new body in the future.

Tim will have his noggin stored with Alcor Life Extension Foundation — one of those hip cryogenic joints.

The famed head will be plunked into a container of cold liquid nitrogen in a stainless steel thermos bottle and frozen solid like a Nutty Buddy ice-cream cone.

So far, Alcor has six heads and two complete bodies on hold in the lab's icebox.

Tim will have to shell out $35Gs to have his head freeze-dried for the future. And he'll have to pay a monthly preservation fee.

"My job as a philosopher is to popularize, personalize and publicize new and shocking ideas that can get people thinking about big philosophic issues," said Dr. Tim. "And certainly, life after death is one of them."

Besides, Tim noted:

"It's a better idea than to go belly-up and get eaten by worms."

Hopefully, when docs are skilled enough, they'll be able to thaw out Tim's old skull and plant it on a vigorous, muscular, gal-chasing 20-year-old body.

Hmmmm, maybe Tim's plan isn't as wacky as it sounds. — Los Angeles Herald Examiner.

Kid begs heartless crook to bring his bike back

POOR little Jamie Bond sits in front of the sign he put up in his front yard after his precious bicycle was stolen. Below, he spins around the neighborhood on one of the two new bikes given to him by sympathetic people who heard about the theft.

By DICK DONOVAN

Schoolboy Jamie Bond scrimped and saved all year to buy himself a spanking new bicycle — only to have a no-good two-bit thief come along and steal it!

The 7-year-old Texas boy searched all over northeast Harris County trying to recover his two-wheel dream machine, but his heart-tugging quest proved fruitless.

In desperation, Jamie erected a miniature billboard on his front lawn bearing the youngster's personal plea to the thief. It read:

"Please return my bicycle. I saved all year. Jamie."

"I never did get my bike back," Jamie told The NEWS. "But I got two other brand-new bikes from people who heard about my bike being stolen.

"So I gave one of the bikes to the DePelchin Children's Center in Houston because I had a bike and I could give one to some kids who didn't have one."

Jamie's dad, Mark, said his son was devastated when his bike was stolen from in front of the house while he was having dinner with his family on a Sunday afternoon.

"It really broke his heart," the father of two said. "He cried his eyes out for two days. I suggested that he put up the sign in case the person who stole it would see it and know how much it meant to Jamie.

"Instead, a radio station heard about it and then the newspapers picked up the story.

"Then the offers to donate a bike came in. It was really something."

And now Jamie is a happy boy again.

He not only has a new bike of his own, but he was able to give a new bike to the orphans.

"That really makes me feel good," Jamie said.

IRS agents find $1 million in treasure buried on farm

A couple convicted of income tax evasion was jailed without bond after cops dug up their farm — and found a $1 million buried treasure.

Following a tip by an informer, IRS agents discovered $315,000 in cash and more than 800 pieces of gold, precious gems and jewelry on a farm owned by E. Randall Walker, 50, and his wife, Twila, 47, of Springfield, Missouri. Among the loot buried under a machine shop on the farm was a canary-yellow diamond larger than 15 carats.

The Walkers were accused of draining their truck line of more than $600,000.

Authorities said they converted all the money to their own use and did not report it on their income tax returns from 1981 through 1985.

Walker pleaded guilty and his wife was found guilty by a jury.

Tourists are eating Flipper steaks!

Thousands of friendly, unsuspecting dolphins are being beaten to death with hammers, butchered for weeks — to satisfy the taste buds of rich tourists.

The illegal black market rants as wealthy gourmets fork out $30 per steak.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 dolphin — like TV's Flipper — have been massacred this year by Italian fishermen in the Mediterranean Sea.

butcher them on our boats so that we can disguise their meat as swordfish steak," said one fisherman. "Sea scavengers get rid of the carcasses, so there's hardly any risk of being caught."

This loving couple lived through a 22-day AIDS nightmare!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Patricia Daniel has never had AIDS, but she knows just what it feels like — because a medical mistake led her and her husband to believe she was dying of the virus for 22 ghastly days.

By the time the Longueuil, Canada, couple found out that results of Patricia's AIDS test were erroneous, the young couple had made plans for her death and arranged for the care of their two young children. Even knowing now that she is perfectly healthy can't erase the memory of their nightmare ordeal.

"It was terrible for me, terrible for my husband Serge," Patricia, 29, told The NEWS. "When I found out there had been a mistake I was relieved. Then I became very angry."

Patricia and her husband fear that her bad news resulted not from a false positive reading — a rare but not unknown occurrence — but from a mix-up of slides in the lab.

They're afraid that there's someone out there who thinks he's free of AIDS but is actually spreading the virus.

And they continue to be outraged that they were put through such misery when all along Patricia was AIDS-free.

The Daniels' ordeal began in June, when Patricia took blood tests as part of a physical exam for her new job. In August, the doctor called her to his office to give her the results of her exam.

"He started asking me questions about whether or not I had a transfusion and if my husband and I had extramarital relations," she recalled.

"I asked, 'Why does he want to know all of these things? Is there something wrong?' "

The doctor gave Patricia grim news: She had tested positive for the AIDS virus, which meant she had been exposed to the disease and would almost certainly die from it.

The stunned woman rushed to tell her husband and the 22 days of hell began.

"My wife and I had to go to the hospital where they treated us like lepers," recalled Serge, 34, an electrician. "They took blood samples and sent us home.

"We didn't tell anybody about the tests but we started to talk to family members about taking care of the children if anything should happen to us.

"We just went to work, came home and stayed in the house with the children. Before this happened, I used to come home, play with my 5-year-old son Simon and then spend time with my 3-year-old David.

"But during that time, I just couldn't — I was too destroyed," said Serge.

Then suddenly the torment was over. A second, more accurate, test came out negative for AIDS.

The Daniels are delighted, but they're steaming about what they went through and have not decided yet whether they will sue.

A medical mix-up gave mom a bogus death sentence

FOR ALMOST a month, Patricia Daniel thought she was doomed to die, leaving behind her devoted husband Serge and their two young sons, Simon and David.

Opposing attorney broke my hand, screams angry lawyer

An attorney taking a deposition in a civil court case says he was attacked by another lawyer and had his hand broken in a squabble over a phone call.

Lawyer Jack Norris of Fort Pierce, Fla., told police that the attorney representing a woman he was questioning shoved him into a corner and slammed his hand into the base of a telephone, breaking several bones.

A lawyer for the accused, his client was guilty of wrongdoing.

In his complaint, Norris said he was asking questions of a woman involved in a civil suit when he picked up the phone to verify information she had provided. He said Ringsdale objected and went after him. "It was not a fight, it was an attack," Norris said. "I took no defensive action at all.

"I worried about threats from some of the people I prosecuted, but I had never thought I'd have my bones broken over a civil case."

Bust doesn't stop druggies

Business was so hot at a drug house in Seattle, Wash., that customers kept showing up — even as cops swarmed through the place on a raid.

Astonished officers had trouble completing the raid because prospective buyers kept interrupting them, Sgt. Jerry Justis said.

Seven people were arrested during the drug bust, including the 32-year-old woman who rented the house.

Magician makes incredible escape from vat of cola

Escape artist Richard De Vere pulled off a stunt that the Great Houdini couldn't master — by escaping from a giant vat of liquid while handcuffed.

The 23-year-old magician was lowered into a 50-gallon container of Coca-Cola before an audience of 3,000 people in Devon, England.

He held his breath for 2½ minutes while working his way out of his handcuffs, but passed out after climbing from the vat. Assistants discovered him lying unconscious behind a screen near the vat, and a nurse in the audience revived him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"I was really frightened before and during the escape," De Vere said. "I passed out, but I feel great now that I've done it."

Houdini tried the same trick, but in a vat of beer, 77 years ago, without success. His assistants had to free him with axes. Houdini never tried the stunt again.

Hubby accused of setting fire to wife & lover

A 41-year-old man is on trial for the murders of his wife and her lover — who were doused with gasoline and set ablaze!

Elaine Holmes, 34, and her 39-year-old boyfriend Alan J. Trowbridge were burned beyond recognition in the attack and died within days, said officials.

Charged in the murders was Alan Holmes, who allegedly kicked down the door of the couple's love nest in Frenches Wells, England, and soaked them with the gasoline.

Holmes has pleaded innocent in the case. His trial continues, officials said.

Eye doc invents liquid sunglasses

A nifty new invention will make sunglasses a thing of the past, its inventor says — by making eyes glare-proof with just a few drops of a special new liquid.

Eye surgeon Neville A. Barsan of White Plains, N.Y., says he added a chemical known to screen out ultraviolet rays to a special gel that prevents irritation.

When the eyedrops are put in the eye, they screen out 98 percent of the sun's ultraviolet rays, eliminating the need for dark glasses.

Feisty lady wins 6 years' pay from her ex-beau in palimony suit

DETERMINED Mrs. Mary Moors smiles after her victory in court when a judge ruled she would get back pay from her sweetie.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Determined divorcee Mary Moors won her point in court two weeks ago when a judge ruled her former boyfriend owed her six years' back pay — for housework she'd done before he dumped her!

The 68-year-old Wantagh, N.Y., woman had to go to court to get what she felt Donald Hall, 62, owed her. Now she's celebrating her victory over her ex-lover, who married another woman in 1982.

"I won, totally," said Mrs. Moors, a retired employee of the United Nations. "I'm a woman who fought back. I'm delighted. Women need a bit of impetus not to walk away from a bad situation and get taken.

"He always said he would pay me — but he didn't."

Mrs. Moors was featured in The NEWS two years ago when a judge set aside a $50,000 jury award she got for the 20 years she spent cooking, cleaning and mending clothes for Hall. The judge ruled that a verbal agreement she and Hall had was unenforceable.

She looked after him for 20 years — then he dumped her for another woman

At that time the divorced mother of three swore she'd appeal and win her case against her former boyfriend, also a U.N. employee. Now an appeals court has ruled that Mrs. Moors proved she expected to be paid for her labors and — because she lived separately from Hall at the time she worked for him — she deserved to be paid.

The court called for a new trial to determine how much money Mrs. Moors should get.

"I just want to be treated like a human being," said Mrs. Moors, who plans to ask for $100,000 in compensation.

"He was my lifelong companion, except for my disastrous marriage, and I dislike him for betraying my trust.

"I had a verbal contract with him of over 20 years' standing. I would take care of him, cook his meals, do his sewing, keep his house in order.

"He had the use of my services from 1962 to 1982. All I'm asking for is compensation for my work."

But Hall's attorney, Robert H. Brodrick, says he and his client are considering appealing to a higher court over the recent ruling.

"None of these claims were made until he married another woman," the attorney said. "The difficulty with this type of decision is that it will be abused by people who break up — jilted individuals who see this as an opportunity to make claims against another party."

Miracle man bleeds healing holy oil

Scientists say a 39-year-old man has cured hundreds of sick and dying people with the mysterious holy oil that flows from his hands!

"It's incredible but true," Dr. Richard Gilleland, the research psychologist, told reporters in Paris. "I have personally seen people rise up from their death beds and resume normal activity after treatment with this oil.

"The healer himself says the substance is a gift from heaven. I have no idea what it is."

Ramzie Assaf said the strange oil began to drip from his fingers and palms after the Virgin Mary appeared to him in a dream on June 21.

Since then he says he has cured everything from cancer and heart disease to arthritis and AIDS simply by rubbing patients with his oily hands.

"There is nothing unusual about the healer's mental or physical makeup and the oil has so far defied analysis," said the expert. "Mr. Assaf's body temperature does rise a degree or two when the oil emerges from his hands."

Siamese twins' dad tells docs:

Cut my girls apart so they can get married

Sad-eyed Siamese twins Laleh and Ladan Rad have been joined at the head since birth 14 heartbreaking years ago. But now their stepdad wants surgeons to cut them apart — so he can marry them off!

By JOE BERGER

Doubtful doctors say the operation could prove deadly, and the terrified twins don't like the idea. They want to remain just the way they are.

But eager Ali Reza Safaian thinks it's time the tragic teens started hunting for bubbees.

"They love each other so much they don't want to be separated," said fat-cat Ali, the Iranian carpet dealer who adopted the pitiful kids after they were left to die in the streets.

"But I want them to get married and have a normal relationship. It is important their futures are sorted out."

The protective pop kept luckless Laleh and Ladan hidden for many years. But he gave them a top-notch education and tutors say they're geniuses in math.

The gutsy gals have even mastered the art of riding a bicycle, with one running alongside while the other one pedals.

But now that they've reached the Muslim marrying age, frantic Ali wants surgeons to separate them so they can get hitched.

"Time has just disappeared, something to be done," he said.

A British microsurgeon has agreed to examine the close-knit twins and assess the chances of successfully cutting them apart.

But Dr. Norman Grant says, if the girls share the same blood supply, one of them would surely die during the surgery.

"When Siamese twins are first born, you don't have the same problems about whether it's ethical to write off one of them," the surgeon said.

"But because these girls are 14 years old and fully developed, you couldn't think of sacrificing one for the other.

"Unless they are simply connected at the skull, an operation would be very ris-

Con escapes — to old jail!

Jail inmate Eric MacLeod broke out of his cell and could have made a clean getaway — but all he did was trudge over to a jail building he liked a bit better.

The unhappy con was housed in the newer of two buildings at the Hillsborough County House of Corrections in New Hampshire, but he wanted a cell in the old building, officials said. So he broke a window in his cell and climbed out.

At that point he could easily have run for it, Sheriff Louis Durette said.

But instead, "he just went over to the old building and waited by the door until the guards came over and got him."

The 23-year-old inmate said he didn't run away when he had the chance because "I was in my underwear, it was late at night and my house is quite a ways from here."

MacLeod, who's serving a four-month sentence for criminal mischief, was given a cell in the old building while the incident is investigated.

Saloon nixes gals dancing without guys

Five partying women were thrown out of a bar because they got out on the dance floor and kicked up their heels — with each other!

Maxi's, a country and rock bar in Columbia, Missouri, asked the females to leave, saying they should dance with men, not women.

A spokesman for the bar said they have a policy that people of the same gender cannot dance together and that the policy has been in effect for a long time.

But the angry women have filed a complaint against the night spot saying it discriminates against women.

"Basically, we wanted to just dance together and enjoy each other's company, and we didn't feel like having a male escort," said one of the women, Pam Reich.

Human organ found floating at sewer plant

The mysterious Case of the Hammond Organ has been solved!

Authorities launched an intensive investigation when a human body part was found bobbing in the dank, murky waters of the waste treatment plant in Hammond, Ind.

The oblong organ — a length of human intestine — was finally traced to St. Margaret Hospital and Health Center, where it had been surgically removed from a cancer patient.

A hospital spokesman said the organ had accidentally been washed down a sink drain by a pathologist preparing it for further tissue study.

Treatment plant superintendent Tom Gordon said it isn't uncommon for body organs to turn up at the plant.

But after all of the hard work Sandra developed a unique program that not only worked for her, but for thousands of others. In only 15 months Sandra's weight dropped from 389 lbs. to just 112 lbs. An incredible loss of 277 lbs.

Her dramatic weight-loss has changed her entire life. When the news media heard about her sensational success, Sandra suddenly became the subject of nationwide headlines. One of them read "Leisure Women Leaves Her Home in Fat City." Another was titled "112 lb. new me from 389 lb. Blob." Twenty-Five million people read her story. The calls began pouring in and suddenly Sandra found herself with two offices and more than 2,500 overweight clients.

As a result of Sandra's own experience and what she has learned by working with thousands of people with weight problems, she has been able to refine and develop her weight-loss formula so that it is even better.

A pack of penguins ate my Uncle Harold!

Editors: You people run some pretty bizarre stories in your Weekly World News and I buy one every week or borrow one from the lady next door if she buys one first. But because you're familiar with a lot of weird stuff, I thought maybe you could help me with the problem of what happened to my Uncle Harold.

Harold was always a little strange, but a very nice man. He thought penguins were the cutest animals on earth and he always collected stuffed penguins and penguin statues and things. Then, because he was lonely, he built himself this icehouse and bought five penguins as pets. (I don't think it was legal, but he did it anyway.)

Now Uncle Harold has disappeared without a trace. I think those penguins ate him. The police have investigated and can't solve the case.

Could the penguins have eaten Uncle Harold? — R.W., Vancouver, Canada

Gee, we don't know. Just how fishy did Uncle Harold smell? — Editors

Editors: As a gay man and also as a human rights activist, I strongly condemn your paper's recent article insulting gay people by conjuring up the spectrum of anti-gay prejudices and stereotypes. Would you do the same to blacks, Italians, Jews, Latinos?

Her fruity dad wears dresses like a mommy

Dear Dotti: I'm an only child and I live with my father. Dad is a respected businessman in town. Lately he's been dressing up in women's clothes and running around the house acting silly.

He tells me it's just a put-on, but I'm worried. I think he seriously enjoys wearing stockings and high heels and going to bed in a woman's nightie.

What can I do to keep him from making a fool of himself? — Gagging in Georgia

Dear Gagging: What can you do? Your dad is a sicko and nothing you can do or say is going to convince him that flouncing around in high heels and skirts is weird. No one knows what causes this disgusting interest, but reading up on it should help you understand more about it. Otherwise, just turn your back when Dad's in his dress and get on with your life.

Wife spends $ like there's no tomorrow

Dear Dotti: My wife Paula heard from a neighbor woman that the end of the world is coming and she believes it. She's been running around giving away all our worldly money like there's no tomorrow. How can I get her to calm down? — Doomsday in Dallas

Dear Doomsday: Lighten up. Let her die happy.

'Perfect' kid gives mom fits

Dear Dotti: I'm worried about my daughter Penny. She is just too good to believe and I'm convinced she's up to something very naughty behind my back.

Every day when my husband and I get home from work, Penny has the house all cleaned and all her homework done.

For a 15-year-old, that's strange. Not only that, she never gives us any trouble with boys or anything.

I think she's doing drugs and all this goody two-shoes stuff is an effort to keep us from finding out. — Worried Mother, New Orleans, La.

Dear Worried: Certainly your teenager does seem to be behaving in an unusual manner, but this doesn't necessarily indicate she's a druggie.

I suggest you rush her to a counselor to find out what makes her tick.

Gal-watching hubby has mate in a tizzy

Dear Dotti: I have been married a year and a half. I'm 24, my husband's 29. Just recently my husband started buying those dirty books, watching Playboy on TV and even staring at women walking down the street.

He tells me I turn him on and he doesn't want anyone else.

I'm 5-foot-7, 125 pounds and I don't look like the women on the Playboy channel. I'm not flabby, but I'm not that firm. I'm not bothered by the fact that he looks at other women, but it's hard for me to sit and watch TV with him when well-endowed and long-legged beautiful women are stark naked.

I get such an empty feeling in my heart, because before we got married I was everything to him — his friend and his lover — and I never got hurt because he never did any of those things when we were together before. — Feeling Really Unattractive, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Feeling Unattractive: Stop being such an insecure wimp.

If you don't think highly of yourself, your hubby won't either.

Plenty of happy husbands have roving eyes and never stray from their wives. Your hubby's love for the ladies may be a sign that he's content with you, not the other way around.

Pet lovers fall for heartless scam, say cops

By JACK ALEXANDER

Unsuspecting pet owners parted with their beloved dogs and cats thinking they would get nice homes, but cops said the helpless animals were tortured and killed in medical labs.

"It was a terribly, terribly heartless scam," said Deputy Los Angeles City Attorney Norman Wegener. "Those innocent little animals suffered horrible deaths."

At least 73 misdemeanor theft and conspiracy charges have been filed against Barbara Ann Ruggiero, 25, Frederick Spero, 45, and Ralf Jacobsen, 35, in connection with the greedy schems.

offered to give up their dog or cat free to someone who would give it a good home, said Wegener.

"Pet owners were told their dog or cat would be taken to a ranch where it could play with children and horses," said Wegener.

Instead, the doomed animals were sold to three Southern California medical research labs.

During a three-month period earlier this year, 48 dogs and 29 cats got these grisly death sentences, said Wegener.

The three suspects operated Biosphere, a company licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to sell animals to research labs.

dogs, according to Wegener. The ruthless scheme was uncovered when one pet owner who had given up her pet called a phone number given to her by Jacobsen, said Wegener.

"The phone number was phony so she went to the address that had been given to her by Jacobsen and it didn't exist," said Wegener.

The pet owner called Last Chance for Animals, an animal rights group, which immediately began a 24-hour surveillance of kennels owned by Miss Ruggiero.

"We also notified the Department of Animal Regulation in North Hollywood and they helped us with the surveillance," said

"The symbols and images are highly stylized and wide open for interpretation," Dr. Bauer told reporters at his home in Geneva.

"The graph itself apparently denotes a time frame. And the depiction of our solar system definitely suggests that they are most interested in our portion of space."

Dr. Bauer has delivered copies of the cryptic plate to experts throughout Europe and the United States. But if anyone has managed to figure out what the symbols mean, they aren't talking — possibly to avoid creating a worldwide panic.

"I cannot divulge the circumstances under which the plate was given to me, but I can tell you that it was delivered by a highly evolved space being," said Dr. Bauer.

"The messenger made it clear that we would be meeting with rep-that he gave me the plate to see if we humans had the brains and technology to figure out the rendezvous time and point."

Phillip Rickner, the French UFO researcher, has personally vouched for the plate's authenticity. He said similar etchings have turned up in UFO hot spots around the world in the past 18 months.

And he is convinced that the extraterrestrials will arrive on Earth and openly talk with world leaders before the end of the century.

"Messages such as the one given to Dr. Bauer show just how anxious extraterrestrial civilizations are to meet with humans," said the expert.

"I don't think they'll show up tomorrow because they want us to be fully prepared. But I do think we'll greet them in our lifetimes. And when we do, a whole new epoch in human history will begin.

"They will bring mankind all the knowledge of the universe."

And that, of course, would be the realization of a dream mankind has had for years.

In addition to earthbound listening posts that constantly scan the skies for messages from outer space, several space probes are actually carrying messages to the stars themselves.

America's Voyager spacecraft carry gold-plated phonograph records that tell about life on Earth. The records' jackets are similar to the silver plate Dr. Bauer claims to have received from the alien he met.

Voyager's symbols are also stylized and include a map of our solar system and the position of Earth.

Ex-Factory Worker Gets $242,456 From A Product You Can Get FREE!

Murry Branch

Canton OH (special) Being rich and independent are dreams which excite most of us. It's no secret of course - the key to financial success in America today - is a business of your own.

The only problem is the large investment usually required to start a business.

We recently learned of Murry Branch, a 48 year old ex-factory worker. Murry started a very successful business in his home, with practically NO INVESTMENT.

The real beauty of his situation is his product. He gets it FREE!

Murry spends a few pennies "converting" the product to an in-demand item, then markets it by the thousands. "It's easy," he says, "and anyone can do it." No personal selling is involved.

The finer in his face - the grey beard and hair, testify to over twenty years "at hard labor" in a paper mill. He became disabled in 1983 and was forced to look for an easier way to make a living. After discovering the FREE product, it was all "clear sailing."

Murry showed us last year's bank deposits of just over $242,456. He says he hasn't decided yet just where to stop increasing his income! His ultimate however, at some point, he'd have to move the business off his dining room table.

When asked, "what is the product you can get FREE," Branch answers with a smile. "That," he says, "would be like telling you the ending of a movie before you've seen it!"

He's quick to add - "it's nothing illegal or immoral. It's NOT food, water, religion, mind power or hard work. NOTHING to do with sex, multi-level marketing, chain letter schemes, envelope stuffing, seed stock, computers or precious metals."

"In fact" he tells you, "it's something I know YOU need right now! It is definitely in-demand. It's NOT a gimmick of any kind and practically anyone will buy it!"

Want to learn how YOU could become successful and independent from a product you can get FREE? Murry has offered to send complete details to readers of this column.

Just print your name and address on a piece of paper and send to "FREE" 701 - 12th Street N.W., Dept. M663, Canton, Ohio 44703.

ACTOR Michael Landon portrayed a werewolf in a "Highway to Heaven" episode.

Killer's bizarre confession:

My sister's hubby was a werewolf . . . so I shot him!

A hardware salesman shot his brother-in-law through the heart with a silver bullet because he thought the guy was a werewolf who had killed dozens of people — including his sister!

Ernst Gavril, 54, has been charged with first-degree murder in the bizarre case. But he vows to plead innocent under a 500-year-old Transylvania law that says it's not murder to kill a werewolf.

"We've obviously got to prove that the victim was a werewolf to take advantage of the law," Gyula Ferenc, Gavril's attorney, told reporters in Bucharest, Romania.

"But my client and I feel sure we can do that. We've got his personal testimony and the eyewitness account of a priest to back us up."

Gavril doesn't deny shooting Aurel Jecza, 38, on the lawn of his home in suburban Bucharest.

In fact, he called on Father Pavel Antal to witness the shooting that, he claims, took place seconds after Jecza transformed himself into a werewolf.

Father Antal told reporters: "It's true. I heard the man threaten to kill Mr. Gavril and saw him change before my eyes.

"Hair sprouted on his face and hands and fangs grew right out of his mouth. His eyes glowed fiery red.

"And he began to growl and moan like a caged beast."

Gavril put a stop to the horrifying spectacle with a single shot from a .38-caliber revolver. The bullet he used to kill

By RAGAN DUNN

Police Lt. Emil Canuza confirmed that both Gavril and the priest were waiting by Jecza's body when officers arrived to investigate.

"Unfortunately for Mr. Gavril, the body we found was that of an ordinary man, not that of a werewolf," said the cop.

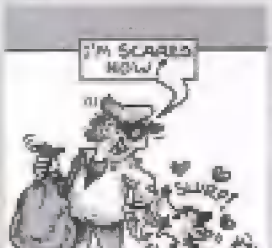
"We had no choice but to charge him with the murder of his sister's husband."

Gavril contends that Jecza returned to normal form after he was shot through the heart — and hopes a court will believe him when the case goes to trial later this year.

"Jecza was a brutal, inhuman killer," he said. "Even if I am found guilty of murder, I won't regret killing him."

Good-natured guard dog goes home with burglar

A good-natured German shepherd named Chatka was trained to be a ferocious guard dog. But when a burglar broke into his home, chummy Chatka gave him free run of the place — and then followed the crook home!



The peace-loving pooch calmly sauntered along as the lucky thief made off with $2,000 worth of personal property from the home of Rose Bailey, 47, in Bristol, England.

But two weeks later the embarrassed hound returned with his tail between his legs when his adopted master tired of his affection and gave him the boot.

"He barks and growls at the postman, the paperboy and the milkman, but he took an instant liking to the burglar," said a baffled Miss Bailey.

The hapless homeowner was on vacation when the burglar struck and she figures Chatka just got lonely without her.

Radioactive heart patient triggers bank vault alarm

A patient went to the doc for a heart test — then couldn't go near his safe-deposit box without triggering a bank alarm.

The unidentified St. Louis man was injected with a harmless radioactive dye, according to the New England Journal of Medicine.

The next day he went to the bank to get into his safe-deposit box and the dye in his body set off a radioactivity detector designed to detect and thus prevent storage of dangerous materials. And the alarming fellow set the thing to jangling every time he went near the vault for the next nine days.

Drs. Marvin Levin and Keith Fischer of Washington University School of Medicine said patients who undergo thallium stress tests should be warned that they may be radioactive seven to 10 days after the test.

Separation ordered for family who killed cops

A mother and her three sons were given life sentences at separate prisons so they "will understand the pain of separation" felt by the families of three policemen they killed.

A Detroit judge handed down the sentence to Alberta Easter and her sons, George, Roy and William Lemons, who were convicted in the slayings of three police officers in the suburb of Inkster.

Suspect serenades dead granny with 'Sound of Music'

When cops arrested David Lee in the bludgeoning death of his grandma, they said he was lying in bed near her battered body — singing The Sound of Music.

Lee, 33, was jailed for investigation of murder in the brutal beating of Tuey Chun, 88, who had looked after him since he was 18.

Cops in San Francisco said Lee was facedown on a bed across the hall from his dead granny singing, "The hills are alive with the sound of music."

Witnesses told police Lee smashed his grandmother on the head with a TV set and threw drinking glasses at her.

. . . after he feeds his dog the meal she'd slaved over

By JOE BERGER

Hopping-mad housewife Angelee Tsago chopped off her husband Harry's head with an ax after he sneaked outdoors with the dinner she'd fixed him — and fed it to his dog!

Angry Angelee, 33, pleaded guilty to murder just days after neighbors watched her club and then decapitate hapless Harry at their home in Kinyaga, Kenya.

"My wife and I heard screaming and when I ran to the door, I saw her hit Harry in the head with a water bucket," a shocked farmer, Ferid Retta, told reporters.

"She knocked him out flat on the ground, and then she picked up an ax and cut off his head with two blows. I was so sick when I saw his head roll away from his body that I nearly fainted."

The grisly incident began when the hungry hubby came home after a hard day in the fields and his moody missus served him a heaping helping of goat stew.

"Harry was always griping about my cooking, always complaining that I never gave him good things to eat like the other men got," ticked-off Angelee told a judge.

"So I worked very hard preparing a dinner of goat and sweet potato stew. But as soon as he tasted it, he said it was nothing but slop.

"I told him to eat it and shut his mouth."

But frantic Harry couldn't stomach the stew and decided to dish it up to the dog.

"He asked me to get him water, and when I came back he had gone," the cantankerous cook recalled.

"I looked in the back and he was scraping his food into the dog dish.

"I ran out and yelled at him and he said the stew was barely fit for the dog.

"I was so upset I grabbed the bucket and swung it. It hit him hard in the back of the head and he groaned and toppled over. Then I picked up the ax and started chopping on his neck," Angelee said.

Judge Julius Mairot delayed sentencing until a psychiatrist can examine the ax-wielding widow to determine whether she's mad or bad.

Gal steals to become test-tube mom

Trusted private secretary Muriel Goode stole $1,400 from her boss — so she could pay to become a test-tube mom!

The 28-year-old woman told a judge in Staffordshire, England, that she took the money to meet a 24-hour payment deadline for the fertilization treatment.

She had the money in a savings account but it required notification 21 days before a withdrawal could be made. So she lifted the cash from her boss to make the payment.

She eventually got the money from her account, then carried it around in her purse for a month trying to figure out a way to replace the stolen money without being caught.

But the theft was discovered and Mrs. Goode was fired and prosecuted. She was given a four-month suspended sentence.

Mrs. Goode said she did get pregnant, but later had an abortion for reasons she didn't reveal.

Lefties have the upper hand

Lucky left-handed people are more likely to get it right in life than are people who are right-handed!

That's the startling finding of a new study carried out by British researcher Dr. Marian Annett, who said that in any group of outstanding people "there will be more left-handers than right-handers."

She said that despite the difficulties southpaws face in handling pens and scissors, they often show more ability in other areas, especially in math, music and sports.

But she said the best all-round performances are usually turned in by those who can use both hands equally well because they can better judge distances and speed.

Actor goes wild & rips pal's face off — with his teeth!

Christopher Sheppard says his evening with a pal was ruined when the man suddenly went bonkers and tried to rip his face off with his teeth.

"The man was actually pulling the skin off my face," Sheppard said at the trial of Stefan Wallace in Knightsbridge, England.

"I could hear the skin rip as Stefan tore it away. It made a noise like fabric tearing," Sheppard said. Wallace, a 33-year-old actor, was convicted of the malicious wounding of Sheppard.

The gruesome incident occurred at Wallace's apartment. Suddenly without warning, Sheppard said Wallace set upon him "like a maniac."

Sheppard said he escaped the attack by running out of the apartment, his face streaming blood. Weeks later, a fragment of Wallace's tooth was found in Sheppard's cheek.

Fancy toilet does almost everything

For the guy or gal who has everything, inventor Keith Chiu has developed the world's first fully automatic toilet seat.

Chiu's super commode seat moves up or down with the touch of a button and adjusts its temperature to suit even the most persnickety posterior.

It has a fan mechanism and charcoal filter to eliminate odors and an ultraviolet light to kill germs.

But anyone wishing to ascend to this throne will have to pay about $350.

Jealous woman falsely accuses man of rape

A man who was falsely accused of raping a woman said she was jealous of him — because he was sober.

A 48-year-old Quincy, Mass., woman said Paul King, 47, was one of four men who got her drunk and beat, robbed and raped her.

She later admitted King wasn't involved and police said videotapes verified King was working as a security guard at the time of the alleged attack.

King said he met the woman four years ago in an alcohol treatment program and thinks she accused him because she was jealous of his continuing sobriety.

Ketchup massacre!

An elderly woman gasped in horror when she saw her neighbor, who was trimming a hedge with a chain saw, suddenly splattered with blood.

But the blood turned out to be ketchup. The Portsmouth, England, man had been splattered by an exploding ketchup bottle his child had shaken.

Shocking new evidence smuggled from behind the Iron Curtain proves . . .

Hitler is alive!

By ALEX JACKSON

A respected East German doctor who escaped to the West says he has proof beyond a shadow of a doubt that Adolph Hitler is alive and languishing in a Russian hospital.

"I have seen the fuhrer. He is a doddering old fool who babbles about the glory days and demands guards salute with a 'Heil Hitler,'" said Dr. Kurt Bechtold.

The noted psychiatrist, who is hiding in West Germany, claims to have fingerprints, blood samples and other conclusive evidence that Hitler, now 99, is being kept in isolation at a hospital in Kharkov under the name of Heinrich Wiehler.

"I saw Hitler on five occasions while on staff at the hospital," Dr. Bechtold said. "He's crippled with arthritis and has a terrible temper, but his mind is lucid much of the time."

During one of his visits to Hitler's heavily guarded room, the fuhrer told Dr. Bechtold how he escaped from Berlin as Soviet troops advanced on the besieged Nazi stronghold in April 1945.

"The world believes Hitler committed suicide and his body was set afire in a Russian shell hole by his aide, Martin Bormann," said Dr. Bechtold. "But that didn't happen.

"It was the body of Hitler's personal valet that was stuffed in a canvas bag, doused with gasoline and set afire," Dr. Bechtold told the Offenbach Post in an exclusive telephone interview.

"Hitler shaved his mustache and his head and then fled the crumbling city in a Russian uniform," said Dr. Bechtold.

The infamous creator of the Third Reich lived 11 years as a virtual recluse in the East German city of Ziegrt on the Baltic Sea, supporting himself by working at a small vegetable market.

"Hitler might have lived in quiet seclusion forever if he hadn't been hospitalized for pneumonia in 1958," said Dr. Bechtold.

The hospital administrator notified police when he had suspicions about the patient's identity. Through fingerprints and other evidence, they determined the man who called himself Heinrich Wiehler was, indeed, Adolph Hitler.

The Russians were notified and Hitler was secreted out of East Germany by the KGB and taken to the Kharkov hospital, Dr. Bechtold told the newspaper.

"The Russians have kept his identity a secret for the past 32 years because they don't want the world to know," he said.

"And they're afraid of being hounded by the Israelis."

Dr. Bechtold said Hitler is a feeble old man who lives in the past and talks constantly of his love, Eva Braun, as if she were still alive. "He plays with dominoes and enjoys placing them in the shape of a swastika," said Dr. Bechtold.

"The Russians would like to shut me up — permanently," said Dr. Bechtold.

"But the world has a right to know Hitler is alive.

"I managed to smuggle my evidence from behind the Iron Curtain and when the time is right, I will present it to the proper authorities. Then the Kremlin will have some explaining to do."

A spokesman at the Russian Embassy in Washington refused to confirm or deny Dr. Bechtold's statements when called by The NEWS, although he asked to see the proof.

M.D. lets office workers play doc, cops say

By PETE COOKE

A wealthy New York City physician has been arrested on a 65-count indictment accusing him of letting untrained employees of his clinic treat patients — while he traveled around the world!

Officials said Dr. Merlin Hidalgo, a 47-year-old internist, allowed four assistants with little or no medical training to handle thousands of office visits.

According to the indictment, the four assistants saw patients at Hidalgo's Wyckoff Heights Medical Center while the doctor was off on vacations to Paris, Australia and the Philippines.

Hidalgo "made more than $700,000 by billing Medicaid" for many of the office visits handled by his assistants, the indictment said.

Kevin Ryan, a spokesman for the state's Medicaid fraud unit, said to make matters worse, Hidalgo "falsely billed the routine office visits to Medicaid as high-priced referral consultations."

Ryan said the scam began in December 1984 and continued until earlier this year when Hidalgo's four assistants were charged with practicing medicine without a license.

The four pleaded guilty to charges of submitting phony bills to Medicaid and are awaiting sentencing.

Hidalgo, who faces a possible prison sentence of up to 15 years, surrendered to authorities. He pleaded not guilty to

World's richest woman choked on her money

By ROB ROBBINS

Before she choked to death many years later, the richest — and cheapest — woman in history had three dire warnings from a long-time enemy on how she'd meet her end. And she ignored them all.

Hetty Green, the legendary turn-of-the-century Witch of Wall Street, was so tight that when she married millionaire railroad magnate Edward H. Green, she wore a second-hand wedding gown and mismatched hosiery.

Shortly after the ceremony, she decided she could also save a few bucks by firing her husband's housekeeper.

The gaunt woman looked at Hetty almost pityingly and said, "You'll be many times richer when you die, ma'am, but you'll choke to death in the middle of all that money."

Ignoring the prophecy, the Greens moved into a cheap hotel and began their bleak and miserly marriage. It was 1867.

Hetty's two children were born in the hotel without either doctor or midwife. Meanwhile, even on her bed of pain, she was waving the Midas-like wand that partayed their millions into billions.

Even so, Hetty saw to it the expenses were small.

When a druggist explained that her medicine cost a dime because the value of the bottle was five cents, she trudged home to get her own bottle.

She even went to the Salvation Army for their clothing. After studying the financial news in the paper, Hetty would send her son downtown to resell it. At 14, he was hurt in the street on one of these trips and Hetty tried to splint his broken leg. When gangrene had set in from improper care, she took him to a charity hospital.

It was too late to save his leg. Crippled physically and perhaps mentally by the ordeal, years later he would become notorious for his teenage mistresses, private yachts and jewel-studded chamber pots.

In the hospital corridor, Hetty had her second warning. She came face-to-face with the one-time housekeeper, now a bent old woman working as a janitress.

"Is the money making you happy?" the woman asked. "Are you beginning to choke yet, ma'am?"

If anything, the implied threat made Hetty even more greedy.

By 1885, the entire estate was in her name alone and Hetty sent her now senile husband to an old men's home — the cheapest she could find.

Yet when he died in 1902, she put on the old black mourning garments she would wear the rest of her days.

Hobbling downtown daily to collect her earnings, she soon became known as "the Witch of Wall Street."

But by 1916, Hetty was living in paranoidal fear of thieves and swindlers. She began to sponge on other people who owed her favors, moving from house to house when they made it clear she'd worn out her welcome.

In the last of these homes, Hetty went to her room after collecting the rent on a solid block of New York office buildings.

When the cronelike chambermaid came into the room without knocking, the two old women looked deep into each other's eyes.

It was Hetty's third and final meeting with her enemy from long ago.

"I see you're in the middle of all your wealth," said the woman. "Has your throat begun to hurt yet, ma'am?"

Clutching her old wrinkled throat, the richest and meanest woman in the world gasped and dropped dead!

Single ladies go for happily married men

By HENRY WEBER

Single women would rather have affairs with happily married men than with leftover bachelors or divorced men who obviously can't get along with women!

That's the word from Dr. Paul Pearsall, who surveyed thousands of men and women, and found that guys with strong, happy marriages are most apt to be lured into extramarital sex by single women.

"Wives who are married to insensitive, mean, abusive, arrogant, unreasonable, unromantic fools can relax — nobody else will want them," said the expert.

"On the other hand, if you are married to a caring, kind, responsive, warm and dedicated spouse, look out.

"There may be somebody out there moving in."

Researchers have long been aware of the fact that couples with strong marriages are prone to have affairs because they have attractive qualities.

But Dr. Pearsall's study is the first to suggest that single women are actually wooing happily married men.

He also found indications that single men are starting to seek out married career women.

"Not only a good man, but a good woman, is hard to find," he said. "When they are found everyone is interested."

Lone Ranger thief ordered to scoop up horse poop

A thief who stole the Lone Ranger's guns was sentenced to good ole western justice — when a judge ordered him to clean up horse poop.

Edward Louis Young III was convicted of swiping twin, chrome-plated Colt .45-caliber revolvers from Jack Carlson "Clayton" Moore, the famed "masked man" of TV and movie fame.

Young, 45, removed the guns from Moore's luggage while Moore signed autographs at an airport in Houston, Tex.

Judge Ted Poe ordered Young to spend 600 hours cleaning up horse manure at the Houston Mounted Patrol's stables.

Young also was sentenced to a month in jail and placed on probation for 10 years.

Saucy Wanda Acuna reflects the benefits of her many athletic interests, including swimming, horseback riding, skiing and skating. The young model-actress has appeared in TV commercials and specials.

Brave burn boy captures the hearts of the hometown folks

COUSINS and some of his school buddies take Brett for a walk in his hometown during his birthday visit from the hospital where he is still confined.

He battled the odds and won after fire left him more dead than alive

Brave burn boy Brett Sorensen got his wish after battling his way back from horrific injuries — and finally went home to visit his loved ones for the first time in six months.

By SUSAN JIMISON

Brett, 14, lost his lower legs to a raging gasoline blaze that devoured most of the skin on his body. The Tiverton, R.I., youth has had 20 infections and 18 skin grafts, and still must live in a rehabilitation hospital so he can undergo daily therapy.

A few weeks ago, doctors gave the courageous kid permission to go home for the first time to celebrate his birthday with friends and relatives.

"It's good to be home," said Brett, who was driven by ambulance from the Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital in Boston to Tiverton, a community of 7,000 people about an hour away. His comment was greeted with cheers and applause from the scores of people who had gathered to meet him.

"He was flabbergasted that so many people were there when he arrived," the boy's mother, Leona Sorensen, told The NEWS.

"There were at least 100 when he drove in and about 250 at his birthday party. His spirits are good. He really enjoyed the trip."

Brett was burned over 80 percent of his body in a garage fire last March. No one knows exactly what happened, but a match ignited a carpet and spread to a gasoline container near the boy. In the resulting explosion and fire, Brett was badly burned.

The child was in flames running toward a water faucet when he was spotted and saved by his uncle, Arthur Medeiros. The uncle rolled him on the ground, smothering the flames. The fire had not reached Brett's face, but the rest of his body was a smoking wound.

After months of treatment, Brett is now doing very well his mother said. He has been fitted with new prostheses to replace his lower legs and he is gradually regaining the use of his burned arms and hands.

"He's very determined," said the boy's mother, a registered nurse who has been at his bedside almost constantly since the accident. "He's a special kid and he's taking his accident well. He's going to be normal again for good soon."

BRETT Sorensen is all smiles as he arrives home for the first time since he was burned six months ago.

Granny's a pool shark

Pool whiz Mary Neborski took up her favorite game 10 years ago, and now the 96-year-old great-grandmom racks 'em up with the best of them.

The silver-haired New Haven, Conn., woman beats the pants off the boys at the Atwater Senior Citizen Center, where she plays pool at least four hours every day. "It's the only workout I get these days," the lively oldster told The NEWS.

"I move around and that keeps me going. And I'm real interested in the game.

"The trouble is, my eyes are failing. I'm legally blind and can see just about the length of the table. I have to get right up on the ball to see it. But so I miss — what's the punishment?"

Mary got her late start in the table game when her son gave her an old pool table he didn't want anymore. She was hooked right from the start, she says.

Pretty soon the nursing home resident was challenging all her neighbors to pool games. The menfolk were amused at first, but they've accepted her, Mary says.

"I'm not one for sitting and gabbing," she said. "I don't like gossip — I like pool, and I intend to keep playing."

OLD AGE hasn't slowed down "Pool Mary" Neborski's game. She beats the boys daily at the local senior citizens center.

Scared pooch rescued from 10th-floor ledge

Rescuers spent more than 90 minutes saving this pooch named Chester from his precarious perch 10 stories above a busy New York City street. Tara Kelly returned home to find the 5-year-old Akita stranded on a 15-inch-wide ledge outside her apartment.

"He was so scared he was barking, then whimpering," she said. "The sun was in his eyes and he wouldn't come to me."

Police, firemen and ASPCA workers rushed to the scene. After some tense moments, firemen crawled out to the petrified pooch and secured him with ropes. Then persuasive ASPCA experts coaxed him inside.

"He burst through the window and I hugged him," said thankful Tara.

Woman hasn't eaten in 10 years!

. . . and she's in perfect health, say docs

By IRWIN FISHER

A 25-year-old woman hasn't had a bite of food in 10 years but she still looks and feels like a million bucks, China Daily newspaper reports.

Xiong Zaiding, from Macheng in China's Hubei Province, suffers from a rare disorder that makes her violently ill and feverish when she eats anything at all.

Doctors have managed to keep her alive with an intravenous solution of sugar water.

Although weak and bedridden for the past nine years, she suddenly has plenty of energy now and actually runs five miles a day.

"This young woman is a living medical mystery," Dr Jin Gu told reporters. "Her complexion is good and she enjoys almost perfect health in spite of the fact that she cannot eat food. We have no explanation for her condition," he added.

AMAZING story of Xiong

"She seems to be totally allergic to food."

Until her strange reaction to food started in 1978, Miss Xiong had led a perfectly normal life. Even today she recalls the last square meal she ate.

"It was noodles and egg soup and fish," said the young woman. "I often dream about it and how good it tasted in my mouth.

"I would very much like to my family sits down to eat."

Doctors at the Macheng clinic where Miss Xiong receives her daily IV say they will continue to monitor her situation closely.

If she continues to feel good and have plenty of pep, they might try to give her a few bites of real food.

"If she really is suffering from an allergy to food then it might possibly go away," said Dr Jin.

yet lead a normal life. She may yet be able to enjoy food."

Fatty smashes window so he can go to prison & diet!

By IRWIN FISHER

Fat Tony Findlay burglarized a pharmacy so cops would throw him in jail — and help him lose weight!

"I was desperate," said the 280-pound man who lives in Hessle, England. "I've tried to lose weight with every diet known to man.

"Spending time behind bars — away from food — seemed like the only chance I had."

Police Lt. Nigel Loftin agreed that self-disgust drove Findlay, 22, to commit the crime.

He said the beefy young man was considered to be a model citizen.

And before he threw a brick through the window of a drugstore and stole a single bottle of suntan lotion, he had a clean record, the cop said.

"I am totally convinced that he stole the lotion so we would lock him away," said Lt. Loftin. "He smashed that display window in broad daylight and was still waiting in front of the pharmacy when our patrolmen arrived to investigate.

"He also had the option of posting a small bond to secure his release after we booked him into jail.

"But he refused to hand over the bond money, saying that he preferred to remain in his cell."

Findlay had lost almost 28 pounds on jail fare before his trial. He was so thrilled with the progress that he pleaded guilty to burglary — and begged to be given the maximum 10-month sentence for a first offender.

"In good conscience I certainly couldn't sentence him to anything more than probation," said Judge Peter Case.

Said Findlay: "I've already gained back most of the weight I lost in jail, and it's just a matter of time before I gain even more. The judge's condemned me to be fat."

NIFTY Tony Findlay lost nearly 15 pounds in jail, but he's put the weight back on since a judge placed him on probation.

Greedy soldier died for gold, now he's . . .

The world's richest skeleton!

The hideously grotesque skeletal remains of a Nazi war criminal who apparently valued gold more than life itself have been discovered in the rugged Carpathian Mountains of southeastern Europe.

By CHUCK O'NEILL

Notorious SS Col. Ludwig Gerth — the diabolical Beast of the Balkans — vanished from Bucharest in the summer of 1944 when Soviet troops overran Romania, an unwilling World War 2 Nazi ally.

"But he never even made it out of Romania," a high-level government official told newsmen gathered in the mountain village of Radauti, near the Russian border.

"A hunting party found Gerth's almost intact skeleton — clad in a tattered SS uniform — on a densely wooded ridge on the eastern slope of the Carpathians," continued the official, Ion Ferenc.

One of the hunters, Dumitru Stefan, said he was stalking a wild boar when he came across a "horrifying" sight.

"It was the figure of a man attired in the same evil, black military uniform that I remember so well from my youth. Its back was toward me and it was kneeling in front of a tree, the entire right arm thrust up to the shoulder in a large knothole.

"Trembling with fear at the hellish apparition, I moved in for a closer look — and let out a scream when I came face-to-face with a leering skull."

Ferenc said Gerth was identified through papers found in a tunic pocket and dental charts. "There was absolutely no indication that he died violently," the government official continued. "We believe he starved to death shortly after fleeing Bucharest. Ironically, just a few steps away from the tree we found a military knapsack crammed with the moldy remnants of enough rations to last a man 10 days.

"Perhaps his arm had become lodged in the knothole in the tree, we thought. But, no, there was plenty of room.

"Then we splintered the rotted through tree trunk to see what was inside.

"It was an ingot of solid gold, weighing a hefty 30 pounds and bearing the dreaded twin-lightning insignia of the SS. Obviously, he had stashed it there as part of his escape plan.

"We theorize the ingot was perched on a niche inside the tree. But when Gerth tried to pull it out, the gold slipped. He had a firm grip, probably, but not enough leverage to retrieve it. And if he let go, it would have fallen beyond his reach. So he held on — and paid the price, a victim of his own greed."

Ageless Civil War widow's the last one left

She's still whistlin' Dixie

SOLE SURVIVOR Daisy Cave's wild with pride over her hubby's bravery in America's worst bloodshed, and still receives war-widow pension checks from us

The thundering cannon of the American Civil War fell silent 123 years ago — but the echoes of that horrible holocaust still haunt the nation's only surviving widow of a man who actually fought in some of its bloodiest battles.

"My Henry wasn't but 17 or 18 when he joined the Confederate cavalry to fight the Yankees," reminisced Daisy Cave, a sprightly 97-year-old South Carolinian who was a half-century younger than her Johnny Reb hubby.

"I don't think he would've gone off to war at all — except he heard that a real fiend and his army were on the way. So, he figured he'd better help."

That "fiend" was Union General William Tecumseh Sherman, who declared: "War is hell!" — and did his best to prove it by torching Atlanta and turning the rest of Georgia into a wasteland between Savannah and the sea. Then he unleashed his fury on South Carolina.

"Sherman's soldiers fell on our state like the plague, burning and looting wherever they went. Our brave boys did their best to stop them, but they were outnumbered two to one," Daisy said.

"Tears would streak Henry's face as he talked about all the death and destruction he witnessed in those closing days of the war — a war the South had lost long before.

"He told me about courageous but senseless charges against Yankee gun emplacements, countless retreats in Charleston, the burning of Columbia and starvation everywhere.

"War, as he remembered it, truly was hell."

Henry Cave escaped unscathed and, after the war, became a successful farmer.

"When we met, he was in his 70s and I was in my 30s," Daisy recalled with a smile. "He proposed to me four times before I said 'yes.'

"When Henry died, I was a young woman, but I never remarried — I could never find a man as fine as him."

Daisy Cave is the last surviving widow in the United States of a Civil War veteran. And every month, the Pineville, S.C., woman receives a pension check from a grateful

This man is car-azy!

He's bought 35 new cars in 7 years!

By JOE BERGER

Car-crazy Eric Spiers has bought 35 shiny new autos in the past seven years, but he almost never takes his spiffy toys for a spin — because he doesn't want to get them dirty!

The buggy buff is so protective of the gleaming machines that he walks two miles to work every day — so his cars can stay safely in the garage.

"I really can't help myself," the finicky factory hand told reporters in High Wycombe, England.

"I love the way a new car looks and smells and feels, but when they get dirty it spoils the whole effect."

Eager-beaver Eric makes just $15,000 a year in a furniture plant, but he's purchased $500,000 worth of VWs and Audis since 1981.

He's gotten most of that back on trade-ins, though — because his cars are always in better shape when he takes them back than when he drove them off the showroom floor.

"The first thing I do when I get a new car home is take the wheels off and start polishing it from one end to the other," said the spic-and-span family man, 40.

"And after I get it just the way I like it, I never take it out unless the weather is ideal. Then, after every drive, I go straight home and polish it again, inside and out.

"My passion costs a lot, and though the wife just barely puts up with it, I think it's worth every penny. My cars are the cleanest in town."

Incredible Eric is such a valued customer his local VW dealer presented him with a ritzy crystal decanter when he picked up his latest set of wheels.

"We love the chap, but he's definitely a little obsessed," said dealer Richard Kaufman. "We've never had a customer who polishes inside the trunk of a car before he trades it in."

AUTOMOBILE buff Eric Spiers, center, poses with his latest new car purchase and the crystal decanter presented to him by car dealers Richard Kaufman, left, and Colin Hood, right.

Thief swallows ring but patient cops get it back

Steven Anthony knew he could get a lighter sentence if he would produce the ring he stole, but he had a small problem — he'd eaten the evidence!

So while police patiently waited for his cooperation, the 25-year-old Richmond, Va., man had to let nature take its course. After six days, sure enough, Anthony produced the prize — a one-third-carat diamond and gold ring that could have brought him a conviction for felony theft.

With the $1,200 ring safely back in authorities' hands, Anthony was sentenced to serve eight months in prison for misdemeanor petty theft.

Couple blackmails millionaire with torrid sex-capade video

By JACK ALEXANDER

A sleazy blackmailer has been sent to the slammer for secretly filming his naked wife in a torrid sex romp with a one-legged millionaire.

Greedy hubby Hessen Hassan fleeced the skirt-chasing cripple out of $125,250, but got caught by the cops when he demanded more money.

The married millionaire, known only as Mr. X, was not aware a hidden camera was rolling when he stripped naked and made love to Hassan's sultry wife Selis, 31. Nor was the woman aware of the camera.

A few days after the romantic rendezvous, the super-rich Romeo was visited by Hassan, who threatened to show the video movie to Mrs. X.

The wealthy London. Engineering, clothing factory owner shelled out $120,000 to Hassan and $5,250 to Selis after the slimy blackmailer turned over the video. But Mr. X was in for an unpleasant surprise later when Hassan wanted another $120,000, explaining he made copies of the original video. Mr. X then called the police.

Hubby pays, but calls cops when they try it again with taped copies

Hassan and his wife were convicted of blackmail but none of the money was recovered. Hassan, 42, was sentenced to six years in jail. His wife was remanded in custody for social reports.

Mrs. X said she plans to tighten the leash on her girl-crazy husband. "He's stupid, but I'm staying with him," she said. "But I'm going to make sure he stays away from 'other ladies' in the future."

SELIZ Hassan was not aware that her hubby had videotaped the affair, but she also received blood money.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

Blocks calorie absorption

SWEDEN—Medical researchers at the University of Kuopio, in Finland, have discovered (accidentally) a new weight-loss formula. The new discovery enables an overweight individual to lose pounds and fatty tissue without dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every patient who used the formula lost weight. The published report of this study stated, "A highly significant decrease in body weight was seen" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was then tested in Sweden at Sahlgren Hospital, University of Goteborg. Again, all patients lost a substantial amount of weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." One patient in this study lost more than 30 pounds.

According to one informed source, the active ingredient comes from a 100% natural botanical source and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before mealtime it bonds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, preventing their absorption.

A substantial portion of the calories ingested therefore pass through the digestive system unabsorbed. The body has to get energy to replace the lost calories, so it starts to burn stored fat. The result is rapid body weight loss. Extensive clinical tests have verified the safety of this formula for long-term use.

The formula is marketed in tablet form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost up to 10 pounds the first week and as much as 20, 40 or 60 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This is a golden opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Cal-Ban 3000 is reasonably priced at $19.95 for a 3-week supply and $38.95 for a 6-week supply. Postage and handling is $3. To assure fastest service, orders are accepted by toll-free phone only. VISA, Master Card, Amex and C.O.D. orders are accepted. C.O.D.'s are $2.00 extra. Orders may be placed by calling Anderson Pharmacals TOLL-FREE 1-800-228-3131. During this special phone order promotion purchasers of a six-week supply of Cal-Ban 3000 will receive, absolutely free, a beautiful 24" double strand necklace of sparkling Chinese Fuax pearls.

Call today to begin the pleasant transformation from fat and flab to the slender firm body you want! If you fail to achieve a major weight loss you may return the empty bottle for a 100% refund.

ARIES

Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Don't abandon important goals now as all signs point toward positive developments in the week ahead. Hang in there and everything will turn out fine.

Your strong Aries intuition could keep you out of trouble if you pay attention to first impressions. Trust your instincts to guide you.

Be prepared to tackle a new challenge that may be about to come your way. Rely on your common sense and don't be afraid to ask for help.

TAURUS

Apr. 20-May 20

You can expect any efforts in the area of health and fitness to pay off handsomely now. Don't be discouraged by past failures. Get started and you'll be pleased.

That typical Taurus stubborn streak might create friction in the coming week, but you can head off problems by being more tolerant.

Signs indicate family squabbles could quickly get out of hand. Make a greater effort to be more understanding now, or you might be sorry.

GEMINI

May 21-June 20

Let a smile be your umbrella this week — it will help see you through a bit of stormy weather that appears headed your way. But be of good cheer. You'll come out on top!

Geminis will do well to reflect on recent accomplishments with regard to future goals. Don't settle for anything but your very best.

A merry weekend away from the usual crowd could open the door to an exciting new relationship that could bring meaning and purpose to a ho-hum life.

CANCER

June 21-July 22

A pesky thorn is about to be plucked from your side, leaving you unhampered in your admirable effort to please those who are counting on you to be the winner you are.

Be prepared to give a friend in need the benefit of your hard-earned experience. Your Cancerian sensitivity may provide the solution to a problem that could later affect you.

The weekend will be a good time to re-establish contact with dear friends in distant places.

LEO

July 23-Aug. 23

Your advice and friendship may soon help a pal out of a serious scrape. Be helpful, but remind your friend that facing the truth is the beginning of the way out of this problem.

Feelings of fatigue may overcome Leo in the late afternoons. Have you been eating right and getting enough rest?

Being the witty fireball you are, a weekend of social activity awaits you. But don't forget to do your chores.

VIRGO

Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Aggressiveness isn't Virgo's style and that can be a drawback. Stop hiding while others claim the spotlight. You're perfectly qualified to be the leader.

A new romantic entanglement could end in disaster. Singles should keep cool with the opposite sex. Marrieds, be on the lookout to avoid petty quarrels and bickering.

Stars say crowded places are especially hazardous this Saturday between 10 a.m. and noon. Do your shopping in the evening.

LIBRA

Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Someone close to you could unwittingly lead you into danger this week if you're not on your toes. Don't give in to suggestions or plans that make you uneasy. This is no time to take chances with your personal safety or your bank account. Save the adventures for a time when the stars say you're on firmer ground.

Something occurring an ocean away could have a profound effect on your life before the week is out.

A child needs your help.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Listen up, Scorpio. Someone with influence and experience could provide your personal key to riches before the week is out. All you'll need are the brains to recognize the words of wisdom when they're delivered and the ambition to capitalize on them. Stay alert. Don't blow this opportunity.

A friend's goof could cause you some embarrassment. Accept the snafu with a smile.

Don't go where you're not wanted this week.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Nagging personal problems may be at last resolved this week, Sagittarius, so keep your chin up. A friend will offer to help you out. Accept the offer.

You can look forward to some pleasant moments of relaxation as a bit of the pressure of your life eases. Take advantage of the rare peace and quiet for some thinking about your long-term goals.

There's money in the air. You could receive some from an unexpected source. Save it.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You may have a run-in with someone quarrelsome this week, as your planets indicate a brief period of strife. But your Capricorn ability to deal with others will keep conflict to a minimum.

Good news involving your family will come to you in the next few days. A relative is thinking of you with fondness.

Do not trust new acquaintances this week if you can help it. According to the stars, someone may be trying to cheat you.

If your birthday is this week . . .

The year ahead is filled with promise, beginning with your financial situation — which should improve dramatically by late winter. Your health also appears to be on the upswing. If you feel good now, expect to feel better!

This will be an excellent year to travel. The shortest of trips will do much to improve your perspective. A longer journey will revitalize you — and could change your life forever!

The opposite sex finds you increasingly attractive as the year progresses. You'll find it easier than ever to make new friends.

AQUARIUS

Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Get plenty of rest this week and watch what you eat. You have been pushing yourself too hard. When is the last time you had a thorough medical examination?

A special surprise may come your way this week in a letter or long-distance phone call. You're gonna love it.

Don't hesitate to speak your mind. Saying only what you think people want to hear can cause problems for them and for you. Be honest with friends and relatives.

PISCES

Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Your natural Pisces irresponsibility could cause you problems this week. Take special pains to lock doors and don't leave important documents lying around.

A lucrative investment possibility may be worth considering this week. Don't be impulsive. Get sound financial advice.

There is a strong possibility you will be rewarded in the days ahead for a past kindness. You will probably be uncomfortable accepting anything — but do it anyway.

Heroic mutt saves teen from death in old mine

By JACK ALEXANDER

Shivering schoolgirl Lorna Campbell escaped death at the bottom of a freezing, 12-foot-deep mine shaft when her heroic dog clawed his way out — and got help.

"I just knew I was going to die," said Lorna, 13, hugging her mongrel mutt, Nicky. "I owe my life to this little guy."

The teen and her pet pooch tumbled into the abandoned mud-filled mine shaft during an afternoon stroll near her home in Glenbeig, Scotland.

Lorna's left leg was bruised in the fall and she suffered a bump on the head which left her semiconscious for much of the 12-hour ordeal.

As day turned to night, the temperature dropped to near freezing. Hordes of spiders scurried across the terrified teen in the muddy shaft.

"Nicky sensed I was cold and hysterical," she said. "He cuddled up next to me to keep me warm and fought off the spiders. I was scared to death. I screamed for hours but help never came. I shivered as the cold night air consumed my body."

Nicky tried several times to climb up the side of the slippery shaft, but kept falling down on Lorna. An hour or so later the determined dog finally clawed his way out.

Lorna's distraught dad, Sidney Campbell, picked up the miraculous story from there. "We had been searching for hours and came home to get warmer clothes before going back out again," said Sidney.

"There was a scratch on the door and Nicky began barking," he said. "We opened the front door and there he was, wringing wet and covered with mud."

Campbell and two neighbors followed the courageous dog through the darkness for two miles until they reached the abandoned shaft.

"I shined the flashlight down the shaft and saw Lorna cuddled up in a ball," he said. "I couldn't tell whether she was dead or alive."

With his neighbors holding a rope, Campbell lowered himself into the shaft and brought his unconscious daughter out.

The trembling teen was rushed to a hospital where doctors admitted her for treatment of shock.

"We owe her life to Nicky," said Campbell. "He's just as smart as the famous Lassie."

A GRATEFUL Lorna Campbell cuddles her dog, Nicky, who saved her after the two of them plunged into a steep old abandoned mine shaft.

Live in Mexico on $14 a Day

One million Americans live in Mexico—more than any other place in the world. Why do so many Americans live in Mexico? Here's why:

- Living costs—They are ridiculously low. Recent peso devaluations make Mexico one of the cheapest places to live in the entire world. Many Americans live comfortably on a small pension or social security.
- The climate—it's comfortable year round. And most parts of Mexico are unspoiled with beautiful, clear, warm waters; green mountains; and colorful flowers.
- Live in a community of other Americans. There are many retirement havens in Mexico—only a short distance from the U.S.—where Americans live comfortably on a minimal income.

The book Living Easy in Mexico describes American retirement communities throughout Mexico. It covers all retirement havens—lakeside villages nestled in the mountains, sleepy fishing villages alongside the ocean, and modern cities having a large community of Americans. The book tells you how to get to these retirement havens, the Americans living there, climate, cost of living, housing, recreation, advantages, disadvantages, and which communities to avoid.

The book gives you practical facts on living in Mexico—health care, laws, travel, customs, food and water, selecting a home, making extra money. The author spent 30 years living and traveling throughout Mexico. The book contains plenty of photographs so you can see for yourself the beauty of these retirement havens. Whatever kind of retirement living you want, Mexico has something to offer you.

Living in Mexico is cheap. For about $14 a day each, two people can live in a spacious home, eat good food, have a cook, housekeeper and gardener, and still have money left over for entertainment or savings.

If you're fed up with high living costs, bad weather, congestion, pollution, too much stress and tension, consider Mexico as tens of thousands of Americans are already doing.

Get all the facts. Order Living Easy in Mexico today. Send only $12.95 plus $1 postage and handling to: United Research Publishers, 103 North Highway 101, Dept. WL-13, Encinitas, CA 92024. You can return the book within

Angels saved my little girl

By DICK DONOVAN

Miracle tot Amanda Brooks plunged 10 full stories, bounced off a metal scaffold and landed on a patio chair. But she suffered only a minor bruise — because she was "caught by angels!"

The 3-year-old tyke toppled off the balcony of her parents' 12th-floor apartment in the Toronto suburb of Brampton, and landed on the second-floor balcony.

ARROW shows the route of little Amanda's fall, miraculously stopped by second-floor scaffolding. She landed unhurt into a waiting patio chair.

Her dad, Easton, is convinced that divine intervention is the only possible way to explain why his little girl wasn't killed in the sickening 100-foot fall.

"My belief is that a couple of angels caught her and carried her down safely," he declared. "I just thank God she wasn't killed."

Amanda had been playing in the apartment with her 4-year-old brother James while their mother, Linda, was resting. It isn't known how or when the toddler took her death-defying plunge.

"Amanda is the only one who can explain what happened," Brooks said. "We're waiting to hear it in her own words."

The first Linda knew of the near tragedy was when the building superintendent phoned to say that a child who looked like Amanda was with a family on the second floor.

Window washers who returned to the building the following morning were amazed to find the railing on the aluminum scaffold they had left outside the second floor balcony had collapsed, probably from the impact of Amanda's hurtling body.

No one has been able to explain how the tot managed to hit the scaffold, go over the balcony railing and end up on the patio chair.

Amanda was kept for observation in a Brampton hospital for two days. Incredibly, she had suffered only a minor bruise on her tummy from the fall which by all rights should have snuffed out her life.

Miracle child cheats death in 10-story plunge off building!

LUCKY Amanda's thankful daddy Easton Brooks believes that angels from God saved his daughter from certain death.

Fired dad fakes job for a year

After losing his job, a computer programmer fooled his family by getting up and pretending to go to work every morning for more than a year.

Officials said 29-year-old Paul Dillon of Birmingham, England, finally grew weary of the charade and decided the only way out was to kill himself.

According to investigators, Dillon was too ashamed to tell his family when he lost his job. He kept his secret by getting up every morning and going to "work." He came home each evening at the same time.

Dillon kept up his act for over a year until his savings and resolve dwindled to nothing.

He was found dead in his garage with his car's engine running.

Brave widow didn't even know how to swim

Niagara's first fall guy was a woman!

By DICK DONOVAN

The first person to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel was a 43-year-old dance teacher named Anna Edson Taylor — and she couldn't swim a stroke!

Widowed and hard-pressed to pay the mortgage on a Texas ranch she inherited, Anna concocted the hare-brained scheme believing if she pulled it off, it would bring her the fame and fortune needed to secure her future.

And so it was that on a nippy day in October 1901, Anna climbed into the giant barrel she had designed herself. Inside, it was padded with cushions and had a leather harness to hold her in place.

Anna's 160-pound oak craft stood 4½ feet high, was 3 feet across, and depended on a 100-pound anvil anchored to the bottom to keep it rightside-up in the water.

Before being set adrift, the intrepid teacher from Bay City, Mich., told spectators, "I'll not say goodbye, because I'm coming back."

Then the top of the barrel was sealed tight, and her two male assistants rolled her into the Niagara River.

Anna's barrel was swept for a mile through the ripping rapids before it plunged 176 feet over Horseshoe Falls.

"Her barrel was twirled and toppled and buffeted through those delirious waters, but escaped serious contact with rocks," a newspaper account declared.

Spectators gasped in horror when the barrel vanished in the spray.

But 17 minutes later, it popped to the surface below the falls in an area dubbed Maid of the Mist Eddy.

The battered barrel was snagged with a gaff and pulled to shore where its top had to be sawed off to get Anna out.

Spectators crowded around the open barrel and peered inside for signs of life. Then someone gasped, "My God! She is alive!"

It wasn't until Anna was pulled free of the barrel that she revealed her incredible secret — that she couldn't swim a stroke.

Miraculously, Anna suffered only a small head cut, some bruises and a slight concussion. And that's about all she ever got in becoming the first person to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

Anna's fame was widespread but fleeting. She lost her ranch and died a pauper 20 years later at the age of 63.

DANCE teacher Anna Edson Taylor, left, plunged over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

FUTURISTIC movie set, like this one from "2001: A Space Odyssey," was vaporized by UFOs.

UFOs zap movie set!

A Japanese film director says his science fiction movie set and a cast of 22 actors were vaporized in a flash of blinding light — by extraterrestrials who mistook a futuristic battle scene for the real thing!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

The filmmaker, on location near Maribor, Yugoslavia, told local officials that three giant UFOs joined in a mock fight involving special-effects spaceships built in Tokyo for his movie.

The glowing alien craft swooped in at tremendous speed and blasted the phony spaceships to smithereens.

Then they disappeared.

"It was horrifying," director Matsumi Okabawa of the Kyoto Diwa Film Company told police in Maribor. "In a matter of seconds all that was left of my set, my stars and my movie crew was a haze of ashes.

"This is no joke. I witnessed it and so did five of my coworkers. At least 22 people died and maybe more. Those extraterrestrials were obviously playing for real."

Experts have been called in from Moscow and East Germany, according to a Yugoslavian newspaper, but the bizarre UFO attack is being kept very hush-hush. Sources told a reporter for the Belgrade People's News that scientists have confirmed Okabawa's story.

According to the paper, the experts believe extraterrestrials used a powerful laser beam weapon to incinerate the battle scene. There were slight traces of radioactivity, indicating the aliens' spacecraft were nuclear-powered.

Scientists think the attack was a misunderstanding. Okabawa was the first movie director to stage a full-scale space battle outside a special effects studio.

The aliens apparently were fearful that the battle was genuine and wanted to put an end to it.

"The alien craft were glowing orbs as large as a sports stadium," Okabawa said.

"I witnessed the whole thing, but if it weren't for the others who saw it with me, I'd swear that I'd lost my mind."

The Wilmington, N.C., medicine man says he's treated more than two dozen folks with success.

The trick is to have the hiccup patient sit quietly and drink a glass of water while someone massages his temples.

Coma victim wakes up

By ALAN PETERS

A truck driver injured in a crash came out of a coma to find that doctors had removed his eyes for a transplant patient after a malfunctioning hospital machine indicated that he was brain dead!

DOCTORS removed Lothar Schutt's eyes for a transplant operation because he was supposed to be brain dead.

According to court documents, nurses found an organ donor card in the wallet of Lothar Schutt when he was rushed to the University Hospital in Potsdam, East Germany.

The unconscious 44-year-old trucker underwent emergency surgery and was then placed on life-support in the hospital's intensive care unit, a complaint filed by Schutt's attorney, Horst Rohrer, said.

"Due to the serious nature of Mr. Schutt's injuries, hospital staff assumed from the beginning that in all likelihood he would not survive," Rohrer said. "After the discovery of the patient's organ donor card, the staff's interest in him focused on his body parts rather than his recovery." Hospital chief of staff Dr. Walter Brandt said the possibility of using Schutt as an organ donor was not discussed among doctors until three days after the trucker's accident when he appeared to be near death.

"At that point the patient was in a coma, his vital signs were weak and getting weaker," Dr. Brandt said in a written response to the complaint. "It was the opinion of the attending physician that Mr. Schutt could not sustain life on his own and was kept alive only by means of the life-support apparatus."

Schutt was pronounced dead the following day when an electroencephalograph malfunctioned and showed he had no brain wave activity.

Still attached to his life-support system, Schutt was wheeled into surgery. In a 14-hour operation both of his eyes were removed and transplanted into 62-year-old recipient Kurt Herzog, who had lost his sight recently due to optic nerve damage caused by a rare disease.

But midway through the operation a nurse in the hospital's intensive care unit attached the electroencephalograph to another patient and realized the machine wasn't working properly.

"The second patient was conscious, but the machine indicated there was no brain wave activity," Dr. Brandt said. "The apparatus was clearly malfunctioning and the nurse alerted the surgical team to the possibility that Mr. Schutt might not be brain dead."

By then, however, Schutt's eyes had already been surgically removed. He was taken to the intensive care unit where another electroencephalograph revealed brain wave activity.

According to Brandt's report, Schutt's vital signs steadily improved and he regained consciousness 10 days after the transplant operation, but he will never see again. "The procedure performed on Mr. Schutt is not reversible due to the surgical removal of the optic nerve," Brandt said. Schutt remains in University Hospital, where he is undergoing physical therapy and psychological counseling. "They stole my eyes," the truck driver told an East German writer during a recent interview. "I want them back."
